"Romance and Adventure" Edition

Telephone Directory

Along with the story of the "commerce of the prairies" goes the greatest drama of "romance, excitement and adventure" of which Council Grove was the rendezvous of activity as described by Mr. George W. Coffin, founder and President and General Manager of the Council Grove Telephone Company until 1961, in his interesting account (see inside) which is Chapter V, entitled "Romance and Adventure" of his book.

THE COUNCIL GROVE TELEPHONE COMPANY

HISTORIC "OLD JAIL" EDITION by j. donald coffin, president & general manager

No City in America was more replete with the "Romance and Adventure" of the West than Council Grove. The story is told that Vice-President Charles Curtis as a boy on the Kaw Indian Reservation rode on a pony to Topeka, to notify of the attack of the Cheyennes. The story of "Romance and Adventure" is graphically told by Mr. George W. "G. Bill" Coffin, founder and president and general manager of the telephone company until 1961 and area booster for his beloved Council Grove. Mr. Coffin was the first Council Grove citizen to have the honor of being placed in "Who's Who In the Midwest" and as we understand it, he was also selected to go into, "World Who's Who In Commerce and Industry", just prior to his unexpected passing. His father, James Coffin homesteaded next to the Kaw Reservation in Elm Creek Township and he had the experience as a small child of hiding in the wood box behind the stove when the Kaws raided the Coffin farm in search of food. "Romance and Adventure" were everywhere!

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

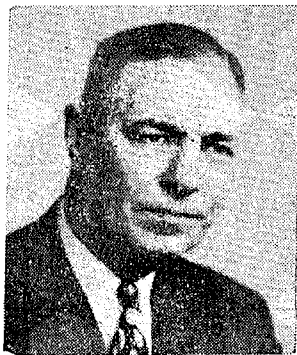

This years telephone directory is designated the Historic "Old Jail" Edition in honor of the restoration of one of the areas most historic buildings. Built in 1849, it tells the Council Grove Story and also the Kansas Story. We present, in the middle section, an abridgement of the original story by Mr. George W. "G. Bill" Coffin, who was interested in the preservation of the "Old Jail" and was named Chairman of the Restoration Committee, and designated to write the inscription accepted by the City to stand by the historic building. He skillfully tells the story of his work and the restoration of the historic shrine; its connection with the vibrating movements of Kansas, the Indian attack, the character of Kansas history, known as the "Border Ruffian", which developed from the Kansas-Nebraska Act, and Kansas became known throughout the Country as "Bleeding Kansas", Quantrills Gang which sacked Lawrence, burned the City, and murdered its inhabitants in the year 1868. The prohibition Law in Kansas and the inscriptions on the marker, are explained in detail, which recount fascinating history of our area, and also the background of the settlement when the "Old Jail" appeared on the scene in 1849. The historic "Old Jail" is of gripping interest not only to our city but also to the State and its history. These areas of history and the inscriptions and their meaning are all pointed out by the author, "G. Bill" Coffin. We also acknowledge the invaluable contributions of many.

We wish to express our appreciation to the Tri-County Telephone Association for the courtesy of furnishing the telephone numbers to the following listed towns with which we have free telephone connections: Dwight, White City, Wilsey, Delavan and Dunlap, and which we have listed in this directory. We wish to express our appreciation also to the Kansas Telephone Company for the courtesy of furnishing us with the telephone numbers to the City of Alta Vista with which we have free telephone connections. These courtesies are appreciated and we have likewise furnished to them the telephone numbers of our service area. We acknowledge this exchange of courtesies and are grateful for this mutual exchange of numbers. The telephone numbers of Alta Vista are also included.

We also wish to express to Mr. Nels A. Anderson, telephone consultant, our deep appreciation for his advice and counsel, and making available to us his expertise; for a long friendship with George W. Coffin and later J.

Nels A. Anderson

Donald Coffin. His great assistance and counsel have been invaluable for many years. Conceded to be the most widely experienced telephone expert in the State, his experience spans all areas of the industry. A career in the U.S. Army, he was signal officer of the Thirty-fifth Division and a Colonel in the Field Artillery to intersperse his career with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. He served the State of Kansas as Chief Engineer for its regulatory body for eight years. An important assignment of his career with Southwestern Bell was that of co-ordinator of the dial conversion program of independent telephone companies of the state with the Bell Company. He was President and General Manager of the large Southwest Company. He served on the Board of Directors of the Kansas Telephone Association with George W. Coffin. A friend of long standing, a wise counsel, and a gentleman of great integrity and vision, we recognize the invaluable services and continuing counsel of our Technical Advisor and Consultant.

The picture on the front cover of this directory is of the new George W. Coffin Telephone Building (equipment building) with Mr. Lloyd H. (Andy) Anderson, General Plant Superintendent, who joined the company 18 years ago; and Mr. S. D. Buchman, Supervisor of outside line operations, who joined the company 25 years ago, standing beside the building. Both joined the staff during the tenure of George W. Coffin as General Manager of the telephone company.

Honorable W. L. Young, Mayor at the time, was largely responsible for Council Grove being selected as the site of the Madonna in Kansas. He was President Harry S. Truman's closest friend. I was grateful that he invited me to go with him to spend an afternoon with President Truman.

George W. "G. Bill" Coffin provides the material for the interesting "Overland Mail" Story (See Middle Section). It is from his book about the Santa Fe Trail. As Chairman for the Restoration of the historic "Old Jail" he selected his friend "Bill" Young and also his friend "Ab" Rees to serve on the Committee with him. Both were former mayors.

Hon. W. L. Young

Mrs. George W. Coffin, who was always closely associated with the telephone company and Vice President at the time of her passing, was a member of the committee to choose the inscriptions to place on the North and South sides of the monument. The D.A.R. had given these sides to the local story. I remember my Mother discussing the matter when she was working on the selection of the inscriptions. The committee was selected by the womens clubs of Council Grove.

Mrs. G. W. Coffin

The inscriptions do a fine job of telling the local story. (See Middle Section) On the north side is a superb history of our area in general. Travelers camped here and caravans were organized up to 1847. Then the Kaw Indians came. They brought settlement. Seth Hays came with a license to trade with the Indians. A trading post was created—the eighth oldest settlement in the state to become a town!

On the south side of the Madonna Monument is the story of the Council and Treaty with the Indians by which the Santa Fe Trail was born. The inscription emblazons on the monument "East met West" for our visitors to see.

The Madonna depicts the resolute qualities of the Pioneer Mother, by holding her infant child in her left hand; a rifle in her right and a younger child clinging to her skirts. Nothing could portray this story more beautifully than this statue.

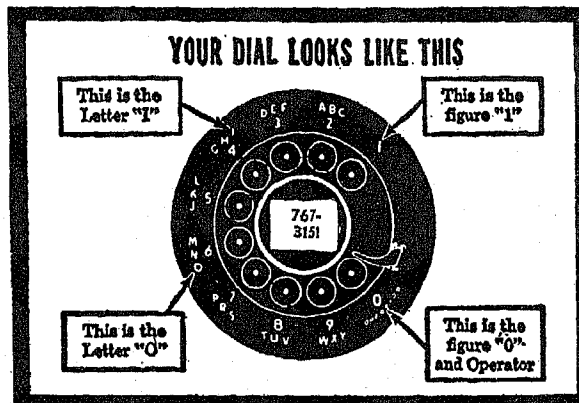

Council Grove is a wonderful city in every way. Study its history in depth. "G. Bill" Coffin pointed out its indomitable spirit in his story, "Council Grove—Peerless City of the Santa Fe Trail". Let's keep it always at the forefront!

DIAL SERVICE INFORMATION

BE SURE YOU DO NOT CONFUSE A LETTER WITH A FIGURE WHEN YOU ARE DIALING A CALL

HOW TO USE YOUR DIAL TELEPHONE

1. Look up the number. If the number you are calling is not listed in the directory, dial "0" and ask for "INFORMATION."
2. Lift the receiver and listen for the DIAL TONE—a steady humming sound. Be sure the receiver is off the hook while dialing.
3. For local calls, all seven (7) figures must be dialed. For example, if the number 767-3151 is to be dialed, place your finger in the opening where the figure "7" appears and turn the dial around until your finger strikes the stop.
4. Raise your finger, and without touching the dial, let it return to its original position. Do not force or retard the motion of the dial.
5. Then continue by dialing the figure "6" and the remaining figures "7-, 3, 1, 5, and 1" in the same manner.
6. After you have finished dialing you should hear in the receiver either the RINGING SIGNAL (an intermittent burr-r-ring sound) or the BUSY SIGNAL (a rapid buzz-buzz-buzz sound).
If the "Ringing Signal" is heard, it indicates that the called party is being rung. Allow a reasonable length of time for someone at the called station to answer. If you receive no answer, hang up and call later.
If you hear the "Busy Signal," it means that the called station is busy. Hang up and call later.
If you hear neither of these signals within a few seconds, hang up the receiver for a few moments and then lift it and dial the complete number again. If several attempts fail, dial "0" (Opr), and explain your difficulty.

AFTER COMPLETING YOUR CONVERSATION—Hang up your receiver so that your line will be disconnected and will be ready to receive calls. If you wish to make several calls in succession, hang up your receiver for a few seconds after each call. Use your party lines with due regard and consideration for the other party or parties on the line. Do not prevent an equitable and proportionate use by others on the line. Failure to do so can cause the subscriber to contract for a higher grade of service or discontinue the service in question. Always be courteous to your party line partners.

HOW TO DIAL PARTIES ON YOUR OWN LINE

Dial 91 followed by the directory number of the party you wish to call. When you hear the busy tone, replace the receiver on the hook. Wait about 15 seconds allowing enough time for the called telephone to ring. Then remove the receiver and start the conversation. The called party should wait a short while for the calling party to start talking. If you do not know the other subscribers on your line, dial 767-5118.

ARTICLES ON "OLD JAIL," "MADONNA" AND "OVERLAND MAIL"

By J. DONALD COFFIN, PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER

Council Grove is the most historical City in Kansas. It was the teeming rendezvous of western life in America and the most important outfitting station on the entire route of the Santa Fe Trail for caravans crossing the prairies to Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Along with the commerce of the prairies went the greatest story of history "Romance and Adventure." Here at Council Grove, the Author, George W. Coffin, turns on a glimpse of the "Romance and Adventure" being enacted on the stage of the Santa Fe Trail in those days. This edition of the telephone directory has been designated the Historic "Old Jail" Edition and we present reprints of authentic articles by the Author, George W. Coffin, which picture graphically the part Council Grove played in the saga of that day. It has always been the steadfast purpose and the policy of Mr. George W. Coffin, founder, president and general manager of the Council Grove Telephone Company until 1961, to boost and advance the service area and the City of Council Grove in every way possible.

CITATION

The contribution of Mr. George W. Coffin, inveterate booster of Council Grove and President of the Council Grove Telephone Company, in his offering of the historic civic section in this telephone directory during Kansas' Centennial year, is one of the most original and worthwhile personal gestures I have observed in any of the cities along the Santa Fe Trail Highway. In an outstanding way, this civic section informs both citizens and visitors of Council Grove of the heritage of this city, Council Grove - "City with a glorious past and a brilliant future".

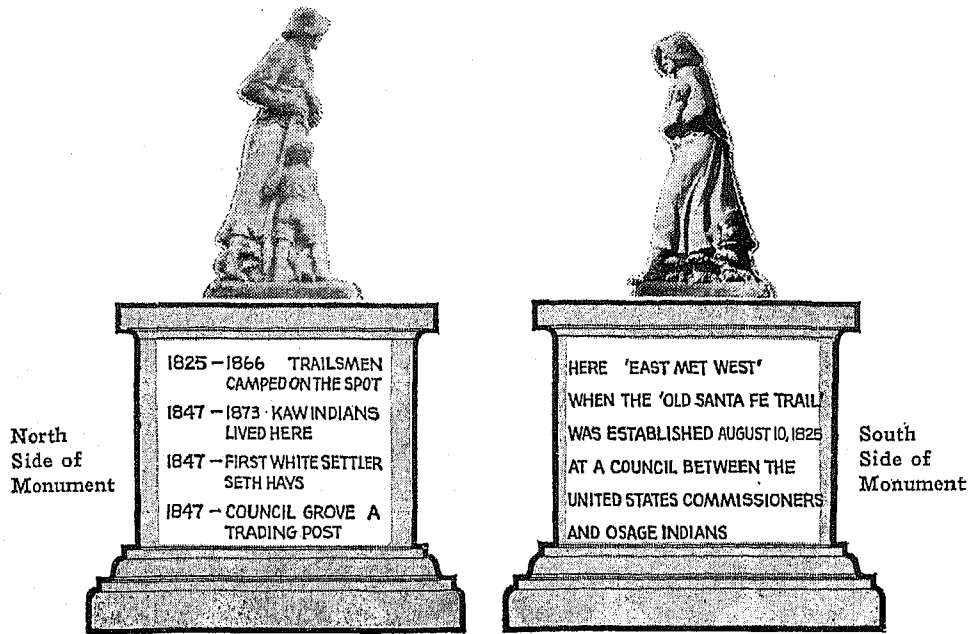

The above citation was given to Mr. George W. Coffin in recognition of his preparation of the Centennial Edition of the telephone directory which was published during the Centennial year of our great state of Kansas. The Executive Secretary of the Santa Fe Trail Highway Association of Kansas presented the above citation in commendation of the work of Mr. Coffin and the policy of the Telephone Company in advancing his home City of Council Grove and the historical information of Kansas.

It will always be the permanent policy of the telephone company and its management to promote our great area. We welcome you to this beautiful City of Council Grove and ask you to stay as long as you can.

We include in this edition some of the most interesting articles written by Mr. George W. Coffin who was the first Council Grove citizen to have the honor of being selected to appear in "Who's Who In the Midwest," and he was also selected to appear in another "Who's Who" book—"World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry," and was preparing the biographical information at the time of his unexpected passing.

We sincerely hope that all visitors to our City will take full advantage of the great historical shrines of our City and enjoy its commercial advantages and its great recreational advantages.

THE INSCRIPTIONS ON THE MADONNA

When Council Grove was selected by the D. A. R., as the location for its monument and statue in Kansas, it was necessary for our local area to provide the inscriptions for the North and South sides of the monument. They had given the sides of the monument to us to tell the great background of local history. (Which together with the untiring efforts of Mayor W. L. Young had done much to bring the monument here)

The Women's Clubs selected a committee to write the inscriptions on the North and South surfaces of the majestic monument. It would be the task of the committee to recount the glorious history of our area in a few well chosen words. The committee did a wonderful job, we believe, in telling the fabulous "Council Grove Story". Every year the statue and monument and inscriptions are viewed by hundreds of visitors. The women who did this fine task were:

CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE & AUTHOR OF THE MARKER

Council Grove's Famous Old Jail of Santa Fe Trail Days

THE HISTORIC OLD JAIL

One of historic Council Grove's most popular tourist attractions, many people have inquired and asked for information about the history of the Old Jail. A worthy exponent of "another age" it was built and put into use in 1849. We present a condensed version of the exhaustive and complete history which Mr. George W. "G. Bill" Coffin has written at the request of Mayor Harry Rosser for the city. Many residents have inquired as to the full meaning of the inscription on the marker which outlines several of the main points connecting the Jail with our State history. Since the inscriptions on the marker tell of these incidents, this condensation covers every event mentioned for the benefit of residents and visitors. Anyone desiring a copy of the complete history of the Old Jail may have one for the asking.

Public Opinion

KEEP THE CALABOOSE

My attention has been called to an article in the newspaper saying an effort was being made to give the old city jail, known as the calaboose, to some other town.

This is a very poor idea. Council Grove should keep everything of pioneer days and exhibit it for the benefit of visitors and tourists. It should be displayed under a good roof in a prominent place in or near the city with proper historical description.

Years ago when prohibition thrived in Kansas a prominent cafe owner was convicted of selling whiskey. The penalty was 30 days in jail. The sheriff being a friend of the cafe owner, gave him the keys to the calaboose. He would go up every day and lock himself in the jail, spend his time reading the newspapers and go back to the cafe where his wife continued the business. I presume that the way he served out the violation of the law was his exalted idea of justice.

At one time Council Grove was excited over the antics of a Jack the Peeper who looked in the windows at night and frightened women and children.

John Jacob Astor said never to sell anything, always buy more and you would always have something. This applies to a city which has places of interest. Keep this and develop more. Let's make our town a real pioneer town and take advantage of all our natural resources as well as historical landmarks.

Keep the Calaboose! By all means. It is the only known jail on the Santa Fe Trail and has housed many a law breaker, as well as many suspicious characters. Let's make it a place of interest.

ON JAIL COMMITTEE

G. W. Coffin Named Chairman of Old Jail Committee

G. W. Coffin has been named chairman of the Old Cowboy Jail committee by Mayor Harry Rosser. Coffin selected W. L. Young and A. O. Rees to work with him on the committee.

The committee plans to give the Old Jail a permanent site and create a historical landmark of it. It is planned to give this only remaining cowboy jail a significance and importance as a landmark of the Old Santa Fe Trail as well as the city of Council Grove.

Coffin said that the jail will be housed in permanent quarters and located on a site within the city limits.

"Our committee will endeavor to create from the old cowboy jail and the tradition behind it a truly representative historical shrine to add to the many others already in the city," Coffin said.

"We shall endeavor to create another historical landmark worthy of a place in the panorama of the Council Oak, the Kaw Mission and the Postoffice Oak. We believe that properly located and attractively housed it will not only be a valuable addition to the shrines of Council Grove and will try to give it an importance also in connection with the cowboy capital and the transcontinental traffic of the old route."

I GOT ANOTHER JOB BY TALKING TOO MUCH

On the night of May 12th, 1954, the orchestra stopped playing, the last strains of the music had died away, the lights went out, the stage was cleared, and the last performance of the stupendous extravaganza, "Echoes of Yesterday" was over and the Territorial Celebration came to an end. The "historic Old Jail" that had been used in connection with the celebration was an orphan. It sat in the open field south of the City for a year and there was talk of it going to some other town. I started a campaign talking to people to preserve it. I wrote a letter in the newspaper advocating its preservation as another historical shrine. After all it was 100 years old in 1949! A centenerian that saw more Council Grove history than any three persons now living. After recounting some incidents about it, my public letter closed with "Keep the Calaboose, by all means. It is the only known jail on the Santa Fe Trail and has housed many a law breaker, as well as many suspicious characters. Let's make it a place of interest."—G. Bill Coffin. This letter appeared on July 22, 1955 and on August 3rd, 1955, I received a letter from Mayor Henry Rosser, appointing me Chairman of the Old Jail Committee and asking me to select two other members. I selected Honorable W. L. Young and A. O. Ress, both former mayors, and assured them that I would do most of the footwork, and with two long time friends we started out to create another landmark of interest to our historic City.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE "OLD JAIL" AS ANOTHER HISTORIC SHRINE

As we went to work to preserve and build with the old Jail, the City did not even own the building. My committee was very cooperative and we made extensive plans. They delegated me to secure the title for the City. Mr Ralph Loomis was the owner and had permitted the jail to be taken from his rock quarry at Helmick and used for the celebration. Mr. Loomis was most cooperative, in fact, more so than we should have expected him to have been. Both Mayor Rosser and myself understood that private firms were trying to purchase the old jail for advertising purposes. Anyway, Mr. Loomis was most generous and arranged with me for the jail to pass to the City as its new owner. He gave us a legal Bill of Sale and our City is indebted to him. By October 3rd, our work had progressed to where the Committee delegated me to deliver the title to the City. I appeared before the City Council on October 3rd, and presented them the Bill of Sale with a complete report of the committee's recommendations. The Council was most grateful and thanked us for our endeavors and passed a resolution thanking us and also Mr. Ralph Loomis for being the donor of this historic memento of bygone days. We felt that the City was more than grateful in their kind remarks and I wish to refer to the especially kind remarks of Mr. "Bob" Smith who was especially expressive. The Council expressed its appreciation to me for starting the ball rolling and to our committee and to Mr. Loomis, and the plans being before the Council it was felt that we were now definitely under way with the program for a new historical shrine.

'Old Jail' Owned By City--Jaycees Have Plans For It

The old city jail, which attracted so much attention here during the territorial centennial celebration in 1954, is now the property of the city of Council Grove, thanks to Ralph Loomis, who owned the structure, and to G. W. Coffin, who made arrangements for it to become municipal property so it might be properly preserved.

Already, Council Grove Junior Chamber of Commerce has plans underway for it to be made into another historical shrine. It is expected also that a tourist information booth will be run in connection with display of the old structure.

Given Bill Of Sale

Coffin, who was appointed by Mayor Harry Rosser to consider the problem that existed as to what should be done about the old jail, appeared before the council last night and presented a bill of sale for the structure. It had been given to the city by Loomis so that the unusual building can be preserved for public interest.

It was suggested by Coffin that the old building be put under a roof and that a fence be placed around it so that it will not be torn apart. He acknowledged that it is not a handsome structure, but he expressed the opinion it can be made a definite asset to the city.

A site suggested by Coffin is that city property just west of Greenwood cemetery, and he gave a plea for greater effort of the community to capitalize on its numerous sites of historical significance. Selection of a site will be up to the council.

JayCee Jaynes To Operate

Coffin was complimented by the mayor and councilmen for his work, and a motion passed by the group expressed appreciation to both Loomis and Coffin.

(EDITORS NOTE): In presenting this condensed version of George W. "G. Bill" Coffin's, "The Story Of The Old Jail", it is apparent that a long chain of events took place to culminate in the restoration of the centenarian, "Old Jail" in a public park on the main street of historic Council Grove.

To create a complete history of the Old Jail became an even greater task. Then to reduce the long history of the Old Jail to a few statements, that would connect the long history of the jail with the part that it played in the great events and movements of the great state of Kansas, became an ever more painstaking task.

From the great mass of interesting material in his complete history of the Old Jail, the author Mr. George W. "G. Bill" Coffin skillfully presents the connection of the Old Jail with the important events and movements in Kansas history; and in a few carefully worded lines struck off and composed the inscription or marker at the request of the City Officials in charge.

The purpose of interpreting the history of the Old Jail on the inscription directly into the part that it played in the history of our State was to give it the background that it possessed for the interest of all citizens of our state.

Each line in the inscription is taken from the history of the Old Jail by the author George W. "G. Bill" Coffin and in the pages following of this condensed version the interpretation of the meaning of each line of the marker is skillfully presented with the section relating to it from The Complete History of the Old Jail. You will have a clear meaning fraught with history of our area of every line or statement on the marker or inscription and its background.

Now that the "Old Jail" was the property of the public, the plans began to spread out in all directions like a big growing spider web! As it grew it encountered new problems. I acquired new tasks and the footwork increased but we were definitely on our course. The city owned the "Old Jail" and our plans were taking direction. The city had a new shrine from the time we delivered the ownership from Mr. Loomis to the city. Mayor Rosser and I discussed all of the possible angles we could throw together. After all, the "Old Jail" had been an orphan for over a year and a permanent location must be decided upon. The Council and Mayor decided a location in Durland Park on Main Street would be a suitable location. The city then proceeded to build the Information Building next to it on the East. So, the place was finally reached where the historic "Old Jail" had been established as another historical shrine in the firmament of the glory of Council Grove!

IT ALSO BECAME MY TASK TO WRITE A COMPLETE HISTORY OF THE OLD JAIL

During my duties as Chairman for the Preservation and Restoration of what we believed to be the only jail on the Santa Fe Trail and one of the oldest such institutions extant anywhere in the Country, as stated, I acquired many jobs in connection with the community aspects of the job of saving the old jail for posterity in our area. After we felt that we had saved the Old Jail from sinking into oblivion and had it well on the road to a permanent home in Council Grove, I was requested to write a complete history of the Calaboose from the time it sat down in Council Grove in 1849. While this was an enormous task to correlate it to the settings in Council Grove at various stages and to try also to give it as much of a State interest as was possible. Here again the facts and incidents were to be related to those of Statewide interest and correlated with the Council Grove history also. The history of the jail takes us back into the "dim and distant" past far beyond the personal knowledge of anyone living at this time. While our task was large it seemed it did not have the minutely microscopic task of reducing the entire history of the State to a few sentences as the task of writing the marker or inscription for the old jail had. So, I accepted another job of some time-consuming proportions in the hope that it would unravel the image of Council Grove and the periods which the old jail passed through for those interested in having me write it for residents and those visitors who enjoyed delving into the remote recesses of local history as fascinating as the tale of the Arabian Knights. So, the arduous task became my job and I began to produce in somewhat a detail a story that would enable residents and visitors alike to relive in their imagination the history of bygone days and the part that the "Only Jail on the Santa Fe Trail at Council Grove" played in the interesting drama.

CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE AND AUTHOR OF THE MARKER

MAYOR ROSSER ASKED ME ON BEHALF OF THE CITY TO WRITE THE MARKER OR INSCRIPTION TO BE PLACED
BESIDE THE "OLD JAIL" WHICH PROVED AN ARDUOUS TASK

One of the things about this job of being Chairman of the Old Jail Committee was that I was constantly getting new jobs related to it. I found that I could not extricate myself from the innumerable jobs and details that were involved which did not appear on the surface when we started. The one which proved to be the most intricate and most involved and took the greatest amount of research was the one when Mayor Rosser asked me on behalf of the City to assume the task of writing a suitable inscription or marker, to be placed beside the Old Jail. As we neared the time for the opening of the Old Jail to the public this task came up. I did not feel that I could decline as everyone had cooperated beautifully and so I had another job which proved the most time-consuming of all.

Mayor Rosser also took a great interest in the job he gave me and outlined the guidelines that the City had worked into the situation. The marker to be placed beside the Jail should outline the state's movements or incidents that could be connected with the Old Jail. This approach would give the Old Jail an appeal to all citizens of the State as much as possible. After all the Old Jail had stood by the traffic of our population for over a century and was connected to the history of the State and of Council Grove. It was not to be purely a local proposition. So, I had placed in my lap a difficult literary task involving much research. A new job including the study of history—one of my favorite subjects. The way the mechanics of the situation was handled, I drew proposed sentences and Mayor Rosser and I discussed them and then we had an advisory group of good historians that we discussed my proposals with. We spent much time discussing, and Mayor Rosser and I wanted to make some connection with the jail to the Jesse James gang but were unable to find any information. So, I presented my final draft to Mayor Rosser and our advisors committee and they approved it covering the following areas: Pointing out that the Calaboose came into Council Grove in 1849 and the visitors could infer what the settlement was like over a century ago; that it was the only jail between Westport and Santa Fe on the Santa Fe Trail; the Border Rufian played such an important part under the Kansas-Nebraska Bill, that they were to be mentioned, the desperadoes and robbers being both whites and Indians; that two Indians were taken from the Jail and hung after the Indian Raid of 1859; that our Old Jail had connection with the Quantrills Raid through Jack McDowell, who was hung from the bridge; a notorious case of terrorism in the town in which the City Marshal shot Jack the Peeper as he was called; and a reference to Prohibition for which Kansas became nationally famous in the year 1880 when it adopted the Prohibition Amendment and the fact that some were arrested and put in the jail for making illicit whiskey and selling it. So with all of these areas covered, the final draft of the inscription or marker to go with the Old Jail, was the history of the State, as connected with the jail as much as we could make it..

"G. BILL" COFFIN IN HIS: "THE STORY OF THE OLD JAIL"

"PIONEER COWBOY JAIL
CITY CALABOOSE SINCE 1849"

It is well for the student of history to try to imagine the actual setting into which the Pioneer Jail was placed. Imagine this historic community as it existed in 1849. Your imagination can carry you back to "things as they were" at that time. You will enjoy the saga of the description of the environment as much as you could any of the fables or fiction of the "old west." It was real, and the community of Council Grove played a real role in this drama.

It was in 1847 that a treaty was made with the Kaw or Kansas tribe of Indians, who were native to the State of Kansas, granting them a tract of land twenty miles square—with what was to become the City of Council Grove as the center. The same year the Kaw tribe moved to the reservation and took up their residence, here to remain until the year 1874. In 1848, a well was dug in the center of the street between the hardware store and the Farmers and Drovers Bank. It was the public well of the city until the street was paved and was dug by a man by the name of Owen, who later was also reputed to have worked on the building of The Mission. The well was dug for the Choteau Brothers, whose store (a log house) stood where the stone hardware store building was later built in 1850.

In 1849 the government entered into a contract to have the mail transported from Independence, Missouri, to Santa Fe, New Mexico and gave the first contract to Walde, Hall and Company of Independence for a period of four years. At the end of the time it was renewed for another term of four years, and the mail along the Old Trail became a regular visitor. One sack of mail was the "through sack", not opened until it reached Santa Fe, and the other was the "way sack", containing mail for the stations along the way. The mail contractors had a corral at Council Grove with about a hundred mules, and the mail wagon would receive a fresh team of mules at this point. From 1849 until 1855 Council Grove had no post office and the mail sack was emptied on the floor of the Hays store; and those who expected mail were generally there to receive it and sort it out.

A depot of supplies was one of the improvements made by the mail contractors. In 1850 they erected a wareroom for the storage of grain and other supplies, and it stood for several years on the corner of Wood and Main streets. It was later torn down and a much larger one, made of logs, was erected on the corner of Main and Neosho streets where the Farmers and Drovers Bank building, erected in 1892, now stands. James A Robbins, father of Mrs. Betty C. Painter, located in Council Grove early, and had charge of the Overland Stage and Mail Route, and lived in the mail building built of logs on the Farmers and Drovers site. Mr. Robbins was later a justice of the peace for many years and County Clerk two terms. He died in 1868.

Another mail way station was erected by the mail company at Diamond Springs (formerly the C. R. Whiting Ranch), twenty miles west of Council Grove. This building was built of stone.

The Board of Missions of the M. E. Church South accepted a proposition from the government to build and maintain a school among the Kaw Indians in 1849.

Only a few white people had come to live at Council Grove at this time. Seth Hays, Choteau Bros., and a man by the name of Kennedy and a few others. The thriving business community consisted mainly of S. M. Hays who came in 1847, Choteau Bros., A. J. and Josh Baker, the Withington Brothers, E. Mosier and Christopher Columbia. These people traded with the Indians and the travelers over the trail to and from Santa Fe, New Mexico. The location of the Kaw Indians here in 1847 had brought settlement. The first settlers came to trade with the Indians.

Picture Council Grove as it was at this time. The only jail on the Santa Fe Trail moved into the scene.

The main buildings of the town were the mail and grain buildings of the Mail Company, and a few cabins were scattered here and there. Choteau Bros. had a log house store where the hardware building now stands. The population was perhaps 30 people. Freighters made the steep crossing at the Neosho river at the east end of the main street, which was a trail over which the freighters began passing in large numbers. Compare this panorama into which the Old Jail of Santa Fe Trail days was established and we have the beginning in penology in our area and the creation of the historic jail, which became a part of a long history of the community.

"ONLY JAIL IN EARLY DAYS ON THE OLD SANTA FE TRAIL"

We believe it is a correct statement that the City Calaboose at Council Grove was the only jail on the Santa Fe Trail between Westport (Kansas City) and the foreign city of Santa Fe, New Mexico. This is a route of 780 miles and the old jail was in service from 1849, which was before even the government forts were built in Kansas, with the exception of Fort Leavenworth in 1827. The Overland Mail began in 1849 and the settlement enjoyed much prosperity as early as 1849 to 1855, which was an especially prosperous period for trade with the freighters and the Kaw Indians, who came here in 1847 on the reservation.

Josiah Gregg in his book, "The Commerce Of The Prairies" says: "Early on the 26th day of May we reached the long looked-for rendezvous of Council Grove, where we joined the main body of the caravan. Lest this imposing title suggest to the reader a snug and thriving village, it should be observed, that on the day of our departure from Independence, we passed the last human abode on our route; therefore, from the borders of Missouri to those of New Mexico not even an Indian settlement greeted our eyes".

A man by the name of J. H. Foster, passed through Council Grove in the year 1849, with a caravan of freighters. He said there was only one house on the Trail, about 110 miles from the start of the journey, and it was occupied by a man named Bowles and his Indian wife. At this time, there were only a few log cabins west of the Neosho crossing. He later returned and resided in Council Grove. There was no post office west of Council Grove and the next stop for the Overland Mail was Fort Union or Bents Fort, a trading station, located 650 miles or seventeen days from Independence. After this the next stop for the mail was Santa Fe.

Much activity always centered in the rendezvous of Council Grove—the outfitting station and place where the caravans were formed. A stone house built by Tom Hill in 1857 was called the "Last Chance" Store by the freighters on their way to Santa Fe; it was variously used as government trading house, post office for a time, and soldiers were quartered there in 1863. The Old Calaboose occupied a place of pre-eminence, and somewhat of exclusive grandeur, on the greatest International Route of Overland Commerce the world has ever known.

"WITHIN ITS WALLS DESPERADOES, BORDER RUFFIANS AND ROBBERS WERE HELD"

Like the end of an old rope loosely twisted was the Santa Fe Trail. At either end the rope frayed out into several strands—several routes at the Missouri end—and the trails came from Westport, Independence, Franklin, to name a few, but all these "loose ends" of the trail united to form the Main Trail before reaching Council Grove. But the final organization was generally perfected at Council Grove. Thus, past the old City Calaboose came the traffic from the east of the freighters, laden with Yankee goods of all kinds. Council Grove from 1847 forward, headquartered 1600 Kaw Indians on the reservation. Returning east from Santa Fe came the same freighters, their vehicles laden with buffalo robes, furs, and some minerals. The Old Calaboose was a part of the life of Western civilization. It responded to life of the West and the rendezvous of Council Grove. Within its walls, desperadoes, border ruffians and robbers were held. Desperadoes of all types and various nationalities; the border ruffian was an important character on the Trail and in the early struggles of Kansas from the time it became a Territory until 1861, when it became a State. In this period as a Territory, Kansas was known throughout the country as "Bleeding Kansas". The border ruffian was one of the classes of violence in the struggle as he crossed the border. There was robbing and banditry along the "Old Trail" both by bandits and Indians and the City Calaboose held a galaxy of all types of law violators. It throbbed to the heart-beat of Western life, as civilization in every period wended a pathway past its door, as the call of adventure moved civilization in constant streams Westward.

STORY OF JAIL AS TOLD BY "G. BILL" COFFIN ON THE INSCRIPTION BESIDE THE JAIL

"DURING THE INDIAN RAID OF 1859 TWO INDIANS WERE TAKEN OUT AND HANGED BY A MOB"

The visitor in Council Grove today may find ample sustenance for his most vivid imagination—if he will walk down Main Street with the historical facts in mind. The chorography of events before him; he will find complete satisfaction for his iridescent dream of the "Old West". The Main Street upon which he walks is the exact route of the world's greatest international Overland Commercial Route. After the line of intrepid freighters coming from the East and crossing the steep banks of the Neosho crossing, and the dangerous attempt to reach the other side—they passed down the route thru the present day Main Street.

As our imaginative visitor today comes to the old Hays Tavern, with its stately columns, built in the year 1857—and one of the few surviving original buildings of the Santa Fe Trail—built by Seth M. Hays, the first settler in our city, he has reached the center of activity in those days. Let him here picture the events that took place in front of this historic restaurant (tavern at that time) on June 2nd, 1859, this being ten years after the famous abode of incarceration known as The Old City Jail or City Calaboose had dropped into the panorama of the few buildings in this—the fourth earliest settlement in the State of Kansas to become a city)—the Indian raid occurred. At an early hour in the day—about eight or nine o'clock in the morning—a band of warriors of the Kaw tribe, perhaps almost one-hundred strong, rode down Main Street from the west, painted and feathers flying, and stopped in front of the Hays Tavern. This is just where our visitors in Council Grove are now standing and can relive again the enthralling events of the "Old West", as thrilling as any that were ever written into the stories of fiction of that day. The Indians had stolen two horses from a Mexican trader and Mr. Seth Hays had sent them word to return the horses and also surrender the thieves.

Mr. Hays was on the scene in front of his hotel. He fired two shots expecting the Indians to leave frightened. Instead, they rebelled and fired their guns and arrows erratically in the crowd. An arrow struck a man named Gilke in the breast and wounded a man named Parks with gunfire. These men both recovered. The Indians withdrew across the stream south. The settlement mobilized for war, and the women and children were barricaded in the Old Mission. The settlers had only about forty armed men. After much maneuvering and skirmishing, the Indians failing to budge the settlers in their attacks, approached with the white flag. The settlers demanded the two Indians who had wounded the white men. After much dickering and counseling among the Kaws, they turned over the two Indians, after an attempt to settle in future payments they would receive. Thus, ended a real life battle with the Indians at Council Grove, in which perhaps four hundred warriors were held in subjugation by a group of probably forty intrepid armed settlers.

STORY OF JAIL AS TOLD BY "G. BILL" COFFIN ON THE INSCRIPTION BESIDE THE JAIL

The attack over, the Indians surrendered and delivered the two Indians to the settlers. The epitome of the surrender was that the settlers brought the two prisoners into the settlement. While there is not conclusive proof it was believed by many that they were placed in custody in the City Jail. It is reasonable to believe that they were incarcerated in the jail and taken out and hung by the mob. The two Indians were hung from the wagon shop on the west bank of the Neosho, owned by James Phinney.

To our visitors who can see the Old West as it was, and the part Council Grove played in it, standing in front of the Hays Hotel today. You can relive every phase of a sad but tragic event. The Indian raid on Council Grove, which made a wide page in its long and gallant saga of those days.

"A BAD MAN, JACK McDOWELL WAS HANGED FROM THE NEOSHO RIVER BRIDGE AFTER BEING GUARDED IN THE BUILDING"

In viewing the long history of the jail, there seemed to be several criteria by which it could be set apart from the ordinary city jail as we think of them, and their rather monotonous trail that they grind out throughout the years. Not so for the Pioneer Cowboy Jail and only jail of pioneer days on the Santa Fe Trail! Somehow, this structure of iron reinforced corrugated boards, of barred windows and dungeon-like cells that remind us of the tales of the days of conquest of the Spanish Empire, and the unsung conquistadores of the age of pirates. It is not a structure that is dependent for its strength and continuity upon the material of which it is composed. It is textured into the very life and history of our great State and the Santa Fe Trail. Through its portals have come a line of prisoners connected and directly related to the important events of our area and state. So, that among historic giants of places of incarceration, the Old City Calaboose stands as an aristocrat. So, we would like to remind our readers that we are not dealing with material values of an antiquated structure, but that we are dealing with causes and effects and the part the old jail played among the lives of people; causes, and pioneer life with all its pressures, struggles and hardships, greed, graft, lawlessness and finally the history that moulds itself into a great State of Modern Society, influenced by that indefinable quality known as "the Kansas Spirit".

Border ruffians were one class of prisoners that the jail served. The jail is likewise linked to the most atrocious murder crime in the history of our state—The Quantrill Raid of August 21st, 1868. Jack McDowell was the border ruffian who brought this terrible raid and the old jail into contact. During the Civil War these gangs of ruffians plundered and destroyed property and committed all sorts of crimes. Late in the afternoon on August 20th, 1863, Quantrill crossed the border with his band of 450 border ruffians and proceeded toward Lawrence. Just before sunrise the raiders reached a hill only a mile from the town. The people really suspected no danger and the fire-arms were locked in the arsenal. The attack began with a wild charge thru town and they proceeded to "burn every house and shoot every man". For four hours the brutal murder attack continued. It is estimated one hundred fifty persons were killed and their homes burned. Quantrill, a border ruffian, and his men retreated to Missouri. This was one of the most savage attacks in warfare of civilized people.

Approximately four years later, one of Quantrill's men, Jack McDowell, had come to Council Grove and stolen some horses from William Pollard, a resident. He was captured and confined to the "Old Jail". A man from Topeka, under-sheriff of the county, was trying to rescue him. He was taken out by the mob and hanged February 2nd, 1867, from the timbers of the Old Neosho River bridge. Threats were received after the event and reprisals threatened against the town, but nothing happened and he was buried in the cemetery, with a respectable burial.

"JACK THE PEEPER WAS SHOT WHILE TRYING TO ESCAPE, AFTER TERRIFYING THE TOWN FOR MONTHS"

It was the spirit of adventure that led people into the pioneer country. There were many fears and many dangers. There was an air of fear and anxiety that prevailed the air in a pioneer settlement. The border ruffians played a most important role in the lawlessness of that day. During the Territorial Period from 1854 to 1861, the border ruffians came across the border to make Kansas a slave state, and to vote in the elections as well. Then during the Civil War period they came across the border to plunder and kill and instill fear and perhaps encourage surrender in the war. Banditry and robbery prevailed along the Santa Fe Trail, and the danger from Indians was always a possibility. The trail traffic moved to and fro and with 1,600 Kaw Indians on the Reservation here, and with this background, the settlers lived a rather uneasy life for many years after the traffic on the trail had ceased along in the Seventies. Into this settlement then moved a force that was to spread fanatical fear and dread—"Jack The Peeper". He had terrified the village for months and frightened women and children. He was elusive and escaped the net of the law. The city, in desperation it was rumored, sent out the word to the Marshal to shoot him on sight. While this is probably an exaggeration due to hysteria, nevertheless the perpetrator of fear was captured and taken to the old jail, and it was on the best information available that he was shot while trying to escape. The result was that this phantom character was shot and he had been captured and taken to the old jail. This ended a long period of fear and anxiety and the village settled back to relaxed living after this much discussed and referred event and period in the life of the town.

"THIS BUILDING HAS HOUSED MANY BOOTLEGGERS SINCE 1880. ALSO SOME WHO RAN STILLS PRODUCING MOONSHINE WHISKEY"

It was not the policy of myself, and the group that I advised with, in attempting to make our old jail as a historical shrine of the greatest and widest interest possible to all Kansas citizens, and in all Kansas movements and historical events that it was connected with, by spelling out each event or each movement. For example, the prohibition movement or temperance movement as it was sometimes called, was a movement of the greatest concern to Kansas people in the Seventies and somewhat similar in interest to the Women Suffrage Movement in Kansas, which was voted down in 1867, and again in 1894; but in 1912 carried by a large majority. Previously women were given the right to vote in 1861, in district school elections, and in 1887 in city elections. However, for example, the adoption of the Prohibition Amendment in 1880 is not spelled out in the inscription of the old jail as such. It is referred to in the following language which described the results of its adoption in certain respects which affected the old jail directly, and connected the old jail to this important movement in Kansas history, as follows: "This Building Has Housed Many Bootleggers Since 1880. Also Some Who Ran Stills Producing Moonshine Whiskey".

STORY OF JAIL AS TOLD BY "G. BILL" COFFIN ON THE INSCRIPTION BESIDE THE JAIL

The prohibition amendment to the State Constitution was adopted in the year 1880, under the leadership and the administration of Governor John P. St. John, an able Governor of the State, and backed by the Administration and the Republican Party, and a great majority of all the people of Kansas. The State then became the first State in the Union to adopt the Prohibition Amendment which read as follows: "The manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors shall be forever prohibited in the State, except for medicinal, scientific, and mechanical purposes." The State of Kansas came into national prominence and remained in the national limelight for many years as a leader in this field. As stated, the old jail came directly into contact with the great movement for the progress of the State, and was embodied as an integral part of the Kansas spirit. Law enforcement officers placed many bootleggers in the old jail, and many stories are told of individual cases. However, it is not the province of this article to enumerate individual cases as a history of the old jail, but to place its connections with the broad State history before the people and those who will view the marker describing briefly some of the very important events in our State. After the Prohibition Amendment came into effect, there was the problem of arresting those who ran stills and manufactured illicit whiskey. The old jail figured largely in this movement of Kansas, and its resulting effect on those who operated illicit stills.

This era of history was one of the brightest in our state's history. For the next ten years there was great advancement—in especially three phases of our state's history—transportation, industry and education. In 1878-1880 thousands of Negroes arrived in Kansas. The next ten years were years of great prosperity and advancement which ended in the drouth of 1887. Perhaps the era could best be summed up in the words of Kansas' great orator, and a U. S. Senator, John J. Ingalls, when he said:

"This is but the dawn. We stand in the vestibule of the temple. The achievements of the past will pale into insignificance before the completed glory of the century to come."

END OF THE STORY OF THE OLD JAIL

The Story of the Santa Fe Trail

By George W. (G. Bill) Coffin

Chapter IV

OVERLAND MAIL

Vividly described by the author is the history of the area from the times various Indian tribes gathered on the peaceful banks of the Neosho at Council Grove to smoke the pipe of peace and whites and Indians engaged in barter and trade.

He describes the removal of the Kaw or Kansas Indian tribe, 1600 strong, to their reservation in 1847. The Kaws brought settlement and Council Grove became, along with Fort Riley, one of the two largest settlements farthest west in the state. The interesting feature of the story, which is chapter IV of his book, "The Story of the Santa Fe Trail", written by the author, "G. Bill" Coffin, and contains much Council Grove history in its pages, is the description of the "Overland Mail" in the Old Trail Settlement. It began in 1847 and the establishment of the "Overland Mail" came in 1849. Its description and handling creates one of the most interesting sagas of the "Old West". The author leaves the reader with a vivid picture of the trip over one of the longest mail routes in the world, 780 miles long. George W. Coffin was the first Council Grove citizen to have the honor of being selected to be placed in "Who's Who in the Midwest" and also the honor of being selected to be placed in another "Who's Who" book, "World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry" just prior to his unexpected passing. Writing of his beloved Council Grove which was always nearest his heart, he describes how the mail was distributed in the settlement in the station which was in the Hays store which stood at approximately where the Hays Restaurant now stands. This was before there was a post office and everybody helped himself to his mail. The description of the "Overland Mail" as described in this chapter of the book has been commented on freely by columnists and writers. The Overland Mail Company built some of the first buildings in the settlement. The author says that the stream of caravans and the Overland Mail made life in the little city a "constant round of pleasure and excitement."

The first settlement made in Morris County was at Council Grove. For many years it was a trading place where whites and Indians met to barter and traffic in furs and other products of the plains. Generally these traders were encamped on the banks of the Neosho river and had their goods displayed in tents or wagons on the spot where Main street is now located on the west side of the stream. At that time a big wagon road or trail crossed the Neosho just above the present cement bridge where a thick layer of gravel covered the bottom of the river and afforded a safe passage way for crossing.

Up to the year 1847 the land in and around Council Grove for many miles was a common hunting ground for all the Indian tribes and by consent or by mutual agreement among the numerous Indians it was held as such until the government made a treaty with the Kaw or Kansas tribe of Indians granting them a tract of land twenty miles square with Council Grove as the center. Previous to this treaty all the Indians made the town a stopping place for barter and sale and for a general "round up" to meet and talk over conditions. All the reports of travelers who journeyed through the country on the Trail or on hunting expeditions agreed that Council Grove was the main stopping point and such reports generally contained some mention of an Indian tribe being located here or was temporarily encamped on the banks of the peaceful Neosho. No mention is made of any fight or warfare occurring in and near Council Grove and tradition surrounds it with a story that here the various tribes met for council and deliberation and smoked the pipe of peace beneath the wide spreading oak trees with a tacit understanding that no one would be molested or disturbed. This applied to both whites and Indians till 1847 when the Kaw tribe moved from their reservation on the Kansas river and took up a permanent residence in and around Council Grove. In these days the government issued a license to men permitting them to trade with the Indians but just what was required to secure this license I have been unable to find out. Such license may have been purchased from the government. The same year this treaty was made the Kaw tribe moved to the vicinity of Council Grove and took up their residence on the reservation where they remained till 1874. We will discuss the Kaw tribe more fully in another article.

Seth M. Hays, of Westport, Missouri, was licensed to trade with the Indians and came to Council Grove in 1847 and built the first permanent house in the town. It consisted of a log house or cabin built on the usual pioneer style and while it was not what you would call handsome it served the purpose and was the beginning of the settlement of our county and city. Other buildings of like character were soon erected and the little city began to grow in a substantial manner. The first cabin stood on the identical spot where the Hays Tavern now stands. Mr. Hays from that time on remained a permanent fixture of the little city on the Neosho and continued to reside here till his death, which occurred in 1873. He was a relative of Daniel Boone and possessed many of the characteristics of the Boone family among which was a desire to be on the frontier among the Indians and the hardy pioneers of a new country. For several years before coming to Morris County he had resided at Westport and Independence, which were then considered the outskirts of civilization. Much of the time of course was spent among the class of people that generally frequent places of this kind and a strong desire for pioneer life was cultivated which terminated in Mr. Hays decision to come to Council Grove and start a new city among savages, traders and teamsters and a few settlers scattered along the creeks and tributaries of the Neosho. In a year or two Mr. Hays erected a frame building that was used for a store or outfitting station on the Trail. It stood just west of the log cabin first erected and where the Hays Tavern now stands. Much of the timber in the hotel was used in rebuilding the present hotel structure and some of the partitions were left standing as they were in pioneer days.

"G. Bill" Coffin

Soon after Mr. Hays located in Council Grove other traders came and soon the traffic on the trail increased from the fact that all necessary articles were sold here for the accommodation of the travelers and those engaged in the trade. Choteau Brothers established trading headquarters in a store building also on the west side of the river near the Neosho crossing. These gentlemen were descendants of the Choteau family of St. Louis who were Indian traders and merchants and who were continually pushing their interests westward. Sometime in 1949 a trader named Kennedy also came here and located for the purpose of trading with the Kaw Indians.

In 1949 the government entered into a contract to have all the mail transported from Independence, Missouri to Santa Fe, New Mexico and gave the first contract to Waldo, Hall & Co., of Independence for a period of four years. The contract was renewed at the end of the time and the mail along the Old Trail became a regular visitor. Up to the year 1855 Council Grove was the most important "way station" on the whole route. The mail outfit consisting of two mule teams, a wagon almost full of corn and two mail sacks. Some years a gentleman by the name of James Bryce gave to a Kansas City newspaper some of his experience as a "mail boy" on the "overland mail train" as it was called in those days. He said:

"Let it be a winter day, 10 or 12 degrees above zero with six inches of dry sparkling snow covering the ground. Then go out to North Terrace Park, to the Concourse, the high, airy spot that is a target for the north wind. Sweeping away the snow from a space six feet square, spread a fur robe or blanket on the brown grass, roll up in another blanket or two and go to sleep. Awaken early in the morning, start a fire of dry grass, boil some coffee and start on a thirty mile drive over country as cold and open as the place where you slept. Do that every day for three weeks and—who would do it now for $50 per month?

"We generally left the square in Independence on Monday mornings. Hall and Porter were the contractors we worked for. A conductor and two hands, or mail boys, were in each outfit. On Sunday before starting, we'd go down to Hall & Porter farm near Independence, pick out some good mules from the herd, see that they were shod, see that the harness was in good condition and then load the wagon with corn. The sacks would fill the wagon to the top when we left Independence. We called the wagon 'Murphy wagons', a St. Louis man by that name making them. They had steel axles. Before we had been out far the mules would have eaten enough corn to give us sleeping space under the wagon cover in case of rain. At Fort Union we'd change the Murphy wagon for a 'thorough brace'—one on leather swings.

"When leaving Independence we'd generally take four mules. Sometimes we'd take six—leaders, swingers and wheelers, we called them. Besides these we'd generally take two others for emergency use. If a mule would get sick on the road we'd put a blanket on him, take him to water and throw a sack of corn on the ground for him. Sometimes he'd be there when we came back; sometimes he'd die or stray away, and then again, the Indians would take him. Oh, we've had Indians take a sick mule and give him back to us on our return trip.

"Aside from the feed for the mules and the provisions and blankets for ourselves we carried next to nothing. One Kansas City postman starts out with more mail than we took on our trip. There were two sacks. One was the through sack, not opened till we reached Santa Fe, and the other was the way sack containing mail for the stations along the route. At Olathe was one of the stations and we'd generally come there at night. We'd yell 'Mail' climb off and carry the way sack into the house at the roadside. The sack would be opened and the mail dumped on the floor. The people in the station would look through the pile, take what belonged to them and with the rest we'd go on. Sometimes a letter or two would slip through a crack in the floor. The postal service was just a little irregular in those days. Olathe was about the most important place on the route. It had a drug store and several houses. Bull creek, about ten miles farther along was an important point, too.

"Down at Council Grove the contractors had about a hundred mules in a corral and there we'd pick out fresh ones. Then from Council Grove to Fort Union there wasn't a post office. West of there, down below what is now Dodge City, we began to get into the buffalo range, and in summer the Indians from all parts would come there to lay in their winter's supply of meat. The government would send five or six companies of soldiers to the Arkansas river crossing in summer to let the Indians realize who was in control. In winter the soldiers would go back into quarters, just as the Indians and buffalo would leave the range until warmer weather came again. In the hunting season I have seen Indian lodges stretch for twenty-five miles along the Arkansas river; and I have gone for a whole winter over the same territory without seeing one Indian. When we'd pass the villages the young ones would come out and follow us just as the kids in Kansas City might follow an organ grinder. The little fellows had never seen a wagon before and it was as strange as a balloon is to many white youngsters nowadays. Occasionally some of the old men would ask us for sugar or whiskey, the first words in English they learned.

"The Kiowas became hostile in '58 and we were given a calvary escort to the Arkansas crossing. We were five weeks from the crossing when we found the bodies of two men and a woman. An emigrant wagon stood nearby but the cattle had been driven away. One of the bodies, that of a man, lay about a hundred yards distant from the other two. Between these stood a little white dog, a kind of a poodle, barking at us angrily as we came close. He had kept the wolves away from his master and mistress. We wrapped the bodies in blankets and gave them burial. Then the officer in command, Lieutenant Eli Long, posted a sign warning emigrants to stay close together. One of the soldiers put the faithful little dog before him on his saddle and carried him to the next camping place. There he let the dog down and his feet hardly touched the ground when he started back over the road he had come. We couldn't catch him. On our way back, weeks later, we found the little poodle dead on the banks of the river near the grave of his master.

"Barring the hideous uprising of the Indians it was a pleasant life for a young man in summer. We were supplied with good food and had plenty of antelope and buffalo meat at hand. We'd often meet other mail wagons on the way, for the contract called for a weekly mail. When we met we'd always go into camp together and there would be a feast. The question always was about the Indians. Then the westbound mail would tell all the news in Independence and the others would give the latest gossip in Santa Fe. Early in the morning we'd be up and the two outfits would part.

"It was in winter that the life was hard. Many a morning I have found myself covered with snow. Every night we would point the wagon tongue in the direction we were going, for a snow fall would make the prairie like a sheet of paper, with nothing to give directions. All we had to do in the morning was to shake the snow off our beds and then feel for the wagon tongue. It pointed to San Francisco or Independence, in whichever direction we might happen to be headed.

"It was a nasty experience to cross the streams in the winter. Often the ice would not be strong enough to support the mules but they were the best judges of that. When the ice was too thin to bear a mule we would take axes and cut a passage through which the mules could wade or swim. The men who did the cutting would find dry clothes in the wagon. In spite of this there was little pneumonia on the prairies, but I cannot say that it was an enjoyable way to be wading around the prairies wearing icy clothes. When there was difference of opinion between the mules and us as to the strength of the ice, we unhitched. Then we'd throw the mules one by one and draw them across the ice on their sides.

"At Fort Union we changed wagons, leaving the spring wagon and taking the thoroughbrace or Concord mail wagon. We were then supposed to be 650 miles, or seventeen days out of Independence. Then away for Santa Fe. That city lay in a valley and on first glimpse it always reminded me of a brick yard. It was composed of square adobe houses. We'd always come into town on the jump and the moment the people would catch sight of us they'd set up a cry, "The Eastern Mail. The Mail Boys". There were big business houses there and you can imagine how anxious they would be to have their once-a-week mail.

"If we arrived on time at the end of our twenty-one day schedule we'd have a week to rest up in Santa Fe. Sometimes we'd be a few days late. But the layoff in Santa Fe was a great pleasure. The citizens treated us like distinguished visitors and we wined and dined as if wealthy men. The next Monday we'd start back again and with good luck and twenty-one days we'd be in Independence. Great days. Well, we think so!"

From the year 1849, when the mail was first established, to 1855 Council Grove had no postoffice and received the mail as described in the above article. The mail sack was emptied on the floor of the station and everybody helped himself to his mail. In spite of the loose manner of conducting the business, there was no kicking. The mail station was at the Hays store and those who expected mail were generally there to receive it and sort it out. After leaving Council Grove those in charge of the mail used great care in being prepared for attacks by Indians and border ruffians. In the fall of 1859 the Smith boys were killed on the trail between Larned and Garfield by a band of Kiowa Indians. They were old employees of the Overland Mail company and were great favorites of all who knew them.

Some time after the establishment of the overland mail by the government the contractors erected stations for the accommodation of those engaged in the work. A depot of supplies was one of the improvements made by this industrious firm and a wareroom for the storage of grain and other supplies stood for several years on the corner of Wood and Main streets. It was torn down and other, much larger but made of logs, was erected on the corner of Main and First streets where the Farmers & Drovers Bank now stands. These stations were established at the various stopping places of importance on the Trail. One of stone was put up at Diamond Springs (formerly C. R. Whiting ranch) twenty miles west of Council Grove. It was the intention of Jacob Hall, one of the mail contractors to secure a section of land every twenty miles under a law passed by congress giving the right to mail contractors to preempt a section of land every 20 miles for a mail section. His claim went before the Interior Department where it lingered for many years till it was finally dismissed in 1877. Many of these stations were probably built for the purpose of retaining a claim on the land which in many places like Council Grove would have been quite valuable.

About this time Council Grove must have been enjoying an unusual amount of prosperity if we can judge by the number of wagons that were making their journey across the Trail. According to Dr. Gregg, author of the "Commerce of the Prairies", the trade from 1822 to 1843 was enormous and on Page 160 of his book he gives the following table of statistics:

Years	Amount of Mer.	Wag	Men	Owners	Remarks
1822	$ 15,000		70	60	"Pack animals"

1843	450,000	230	350	30
Total	$2,992,000	1,541	3,160	962

In 1843 the trade on the Trail was temporarily checked by an order of the Mexican government and in 1846 the war between the United States and Mexico stopped traffic for a time but this was resumed and trade continued for many years. Council Grove enjoyed much prosperity and the "overland mail" and the constant stream of caravans going and coming made life in the little city a "constant round of pleasure and excitement." The old stage coach days were long remembered and the incidents connected with them are cherished in the minds of all the early pioneers of that day. Around the places which were notable in those days cluster the uncertain aroma of adventure and romance, untold stories of hardship and privation; all of which have a singular fascination for those interested in the early settlement and exploration of the western country.

After the overland mail was established the contractors ran it for several years as a mail wagon only but gradually the trade demanded a wagon that would carry passengers and the "overland-mail-stage-coach" was the result. The Missouri Common-wealth, a newspaper published in Independence, in 1850, has the following to say about the mail stage:

"We briefly alluded, some days since, to the Santa Fe line of mail stages which left this city on its first monthly journey on the first instant. The stages are got up in elegant style, and are each arranged to convey eight passengers. The bodies are beautifully painted, and made water tight, with a view of using them as boats in ferrying streams. The team consists of six mules to each coach. The mail is guarded by eight men armed. The accommodating contractors have established a sort of base of refitting at Council Grove, a distance of 150 miles from this city, and have sent out a blacksmith, and a number of men to cut and cure hay, with a quantity of animals, grain and provisions; and we understand they intend to make a sort of traveling station there, and to commence a farm."

The fare to Santa Fe from Independence was at that time $250 with a 40 pound limit on baggage. This included the board of the traveler but the board was not very extravagant. It consisted of hard crackers, bacon and coffee and sometimes buffalo and antelope meat. The coffee was a dark colored beverage that bore that name and has often been freely commented on by people who indulged in its use in after years but it was not safe to comment in too loud a voice regarding its shortcomings at that time and the "wise man" of that day drank in silence as stolid and ominous as the beverage itself.
