Introduction

The purpose of this book is to provide a useful record of information taken from tombstones located in the various small cemeteries of Sumner County, Kansas. It should be understood by the users of this book that it was necessary to exclude the cemeteries of the cities of Mulvane, Caldwell, Wellington and Belle Plain, mainly due to their size. Records of these four cemeteries are either available at their respective city buildings or the location of these records can be determined from personnel at the city building.

Burial records for many of the small cemeteries may be incomplete or have become lost. One of the main purposes of this book was to preserve the record that remains on the tombstones. Many of the older stones, particularly those prior to around 1900 are rapidly deteriorating and will soon be illegible.

The information contained in this directory was recorded during the summer of 1989. There were many stones that did not indicate a date of death at the time this information was recorded. One must consider that no date of death may include the possibility that in 1989 the person was not deceased, or that a date of death had not yet been inscribed on the stone, or that the person could be interred elsewhere. In many places in this directory, dashes are used in dates to indicate where a portion of the date was not on the stone, or in some cases, where the stone was illegible.

A book of this type can be of great value to one doing genealogical research. For that reason it was decided to include, as space would permit, genealogical information in the notes. The notes will indicate if the stone is shared with another person, even though that person may not be deceased. No conclusions have been made as to relationships of persons unless it was indicated on the stone. As a reminder to the genealogist, much can be learned from visiting a cemetery and observing adjacent stones or other stones in the same family plot.

In order to make a directory of this type more useful, an index section has been provided to identify the cemetery where the name was recorded. Also the section that gives the cemetery location will be helpful to those wanting to visit a cemetery.

Acknowledgment

The authors are grateful to Harvey and Ruth Swan and others who's earlier work provided the much needed information which allowed us to locate the various burial sites throughout Sumner County.

The information contained in this book was gathered during the summer of 1989. The information was recorded at the time this information was recorded. One must consider that no date of death may include the possibility that in 1989 the person was not deceased, or that a date of death had not yet been inscribed on the stone, or that the person could be interred elsewhere. In many places in this directory, dashes are used in dates to indicate where a portion of the date was not on the stone, or in some cases, where the stone was illegible. A book of this type can be of great value to one doing genealogical research. For that reason it was decided to include, as space would permit, genealogical information in the notes. The notes will indicate if the stone is shared with another person, even though that person may not be censured. No conclusions have been made as to relationships of persons unless it was indicated on the stone. As a reminder to the genealogist, much can be learned from visiting a cemetery and observing adjacent stones or other stones in the same family plot.

In order to make a directory of this type more useful, an index section has been provided to identify the cemetery where the name was recorded. Also the section that gives the cemetery location will be helpful to those wanting to visit a cemetery.
