INTRODUCTION

Cass County, about 35 miles south of Kansas City, is bounded on the north by Jackson Co., on the east by Johnson and Henry Cos., on the south by Bates Co., and on the west by the State of Kansas. Created May 3, 1835 from part of Jackson County, it was originally called Van Buren County, named for President Van Buren who afterwards gained the ill will of the Democrats of Missouri, and on Feb. 19, 1849, the General Assembly changed the name of the county to Cass, in honor of Gen. Lewis Cass of Michigan, Democratic candidate for President in the previous year. When organized, its territory was all of that of the present county of Cass (Van Buren, then), plus the three northern tiers of townships in the present county of Bates. These three northern tiers of townships were detached from Cass on Feb. 2, 1855, and became a part of Bates County.

The records here given were microfilmed in the Office of the Recorder in the Cass County Courthouse at Harrisonville, Mo. These were not the "original" marriage books. During the Civil War the courthouse was the prime target of invading armies, thus before the Recorder left for service, he buried the records under the anvil in the nearby blacksmith shop. Upon his return it was discovered that while the books were saved, dampness and insects had rendered them practically useless. The marriages were transcribed into a new ledger upon order of the Court. The clerk was very meticulous and copied them verbatim in a bold beautiful script, underlining not only the recognizable mistakes in surnames and spelling, but also the errors in grammar. The compiler has retained the original spelling and underscoring.

From 1861 to 1863 the records are incomplete, and in the year 1862 only 4 marriages were recorded by the "ex-officio recorder". All items of genealogical interest has been abstracted and included in this compilation.

A key to the name (number) of the minister or justice performing the ceremony follows the marriage records, beginning on page 57 in this book. The names are alphabetized and will not be included in the surname index. The reader would be wise to check all possible spellings.
