DeKalb County, Missouri

DeKalb County - A county in the northwestern part of the State, bounded on the north by Gentry; east by Daviess and Caldwell; south by Clinton, and west by Andrew and Buchanan Counties.

Mills for grinding were among the first urgent wants. One of the earliest was David Whittaker's mill on Grindstone Creek, in Grand River Township. William Hunter put up a horse mill and small distillery in the northeast corner of that township at an early date, and William Thornton and Adam Kerns put up a horse mill in Washington Township. The old military trail between Liberty, Clay County and Council Bluffs ran through the county, and the earliest bit of history of DeKalb county relates how three United States soldiers carrying the mail over this trail in the winter of 1824-5 were overtaken by a snow storm and bewildered. Two of them burrowed into a snow drift, near the present site of Maysville, while the third managed to return to Liberty and tell the story of their sufferings. Rescuers started out to succor the two in the snow drift, who were found with hands and feet frozen, and nearly dead from four days' starvation. "Lost Creek" near where the unfortunate men found a dreary shelter in the snow drift, perpetuates the memory of the disaster. Samuel Vesser, a French-Canadian, who had a cabin north of the present site of Stewartsville, in 1824, is supposed to have been the first white resident of the county. He did not remain after other settlers came.

Abraham Stanley located in what is now Washington Township, about 1830, but moved away two years later. Several settlers came into Washington Township in 1838 and 1839, but their names are not preserved. In 1842 Thomas Yallalee, from South Carolina made a settlement a mile northeast of where Stewartsville now stands, and the same year a man named Tinney, from Tennessee, settled near him. Evan Evans about the same time settled at the western part of Washington Township. He was an enterprising man and built the first distillery. Isaac Agee and James Torrey located in Washington Township about 1839, and about the same time came Elder Jesse Todd, a Baptist preacher from Kentucky. He was the first resident clergyman in the county, and was highly esteemed.

In 1840 William Thornton, a brother-in-law of Elder Todd accompanied by his sons, Jeremiah, Jeptha, John and Thomas R. Thornton, all of whom became prominent citizens, located in Washington Township, and the same year John F. Doherty, of East Tennessee, settled in the county. When DeKalb County was organized Mr. Doherty was made the first county clerk, and was afterward elected to the Legislature for several terms.

Sherman Township was settled first by persons who came from Kentucky and Tennessee; John Means, William Means, Nathan Morgan, with his six sons, and Greenup Gibson being among those who came in the early forties.

The settlement of Adams Township began about the year 1840, when several families located on Grindstone Creek. Dallas and Grant Townships were settled in 1839, when James Green and Mason Cope built on Lost Creek. In 1840 James Sherard settled near the present site of Fairport. He came originally from Vermont, and was accompanied by his five sons, all of whom became influential citizens. Levi Thatcher, Andrew Wood, James Davis, and George Ward were among the earliest settlers.

Camden Township was settled in 1844-5, James M. Arrington, from Tennessee, locating there in 1844. He afterward became county clerk and served in the Legislature. Other early settlers were Ephraim Porter, William Coen, William McClain, John McCall, George Ireland, Tompkins Jones, James M. Skidmore, Thomas and James Davis, George W. McPherson, and his brother, Hugh L. McPherson.

Grand River Township was settled in 1839, the first settlers being Edward Smith, from Tennessee; William Hunter, Albert H. Owens, Samuel McCorkle, John Wright, James Shaw, Michael Moore, Daniel Parks, Dr. A. T. Downing, David Whittaker, and Simon Hixson. Colfax was the latest settled township in the county. Its first settlers were Thompson Smith, Neville Stevens, Rev. Elijah Moore, Andrew Potter, Littleton Roberts, Ellis Coen, Mrs. Kibby, Dr. Smith and Thomas Edie.

One of the first settlers in Polk Township was Samuel Livingston, from St. Louis, who located there in 1843. Not long after, James Robinson, with his sons, Edward, Thomas, and Joseph arrived.

DeKalb County was originally a part of Ray County. In January, 1843, an act of Legislature was passed establishing the boundaries of DeKalb County, and in February, 1845, an act was passed providing for the organization of the county. Henry Brown, of Andrew; Peter Price, of Daviess, and Martin M. [unclear] of Clinton County, were made commissioners to locate the permanent seat of justice, and the dwelling house of Henry [unclear], two miles southeast of Maysville, was designated as a place for holding the courts.

The first county court met at the house of Thomas [unclear] May 25, 1845, the justices, Elias Parrott, James McMahan and Henry Ritchey, being present with Charles Allen, sheriff, and John F. Doherty, clerk, all being from Tennessee. Andrew Hart, from Ohio, was treasurer; Charles H. Allen, who had been elected sheriff, refused to qualify, and Andrew H. Skidmore was appointed in his place; James McKowen was appointed assessor, and John F. Doherty was made clerk of both courts, serving until the following year, when he was succeeded by James M. Arrington.

The following year Walter Doak, by order of the county court, built a double log house with two fifteen-foot rooms on the east side of the public square of Maysville, and into it the county offices were moved in 1847. This served until 1857.

when a new brick courthouse, two stories high, a court room and two offices below, and the other offices above, was built, at a cost of $3,750. This building was occupied until 1878, when it was burned down, many of the records being destroyed with it.

The first deed on record in the county is dated August 27, 1845, made by Charles Pryor and Catherine, his wife, of Gentry County, Missouri, to John Montgomery, of Jackson County, Missouri conveying eighty acres, consideration $150.

The earliest preachers in DeKalb County were Elders Jesse Todd and John M. Evans, from Kentucky, and the first church in the county was the Baptist, of twenty-two members, organized by them in what is now Washington Township in 1842.

27 day August 1850
 Thomas Brooks, Assistant Marshall
