Attached to this Bible record, was a newspaper clipping, July 10, 1975 "Dunklin County Press".

"Mr. Hursle Bohannon of St. Louis sent this photograph of his father, the late Henry Bohannon.

"He also sent a short history of Senath he felt would be of interest to our readers.

"Senath is named for Mrs. Thomas Douglass (Asenath) who sorted the mail for area residents as it was brought to her home by mail back from Kennett. The old Douglass home was located near the southeast corner of the present Senath Cemetery.

"According to Mr. Bohannon's information, some of the village men wanted a saloon, but could not erect one without incorporating the village. They incorporated in the year 1896. Soon thereafter they drafted James Henry Bohannon for the first marshal and built a log jail near the main road, going east, where the Douglass Memorial Park is now located.

"The late Mr. Bohannon lived in the house just south of Hezzies Supermarket Parking lot. At that time the house had only two rooms.

"The two surviving sons of Henry Bohannon are pictured in front of the homeplace, Hursle, of St. Louis and Morris of Blytheville, Ark. Four daughters of the late Mr. Bohannon are: Mrs. Dora Ray of Kennett, Mrs. Lois Hubbard of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Lola Clevenger of Senath and Mrs. Mary Wheeler of Leachville, Ark."

Virgil A. Stewart, 1860 - 1874, was buried in a grove of trees on the Stewart farm. This was the beginning of the Stewart Family Cemetery north of Campbell where about two dozen people are now buried.

Attached to this Bible record was a newspaper clipping, October 1975.

ARRIVED IN CAMPBELL IN COVERED WAGONS

Two Now Survive 1900 Adventure

By Virginia Stewart (Mrs. John Stewart, Sr.)

"On October 5, 1900, a caravan pulled into Campbell. It was made up of several covered wagons which were loaded with home furnishings and assortments of personal possessions which were dear to the hearts of the owners of the wagons and their families.

"As pioneering ventures of that day went, this wagon train had been on the road only a few days since getting underway in the vicinity of Mayfield, Ky.

"Riding the wagon train were the male members of the Veatch, Oliver, Patrick, Stanfill and several other families.

"These men, who were the official heads of their families, had sold their farms in Kentucky some time before and had made a business trip to Missouri in quest of new farmsteads. Somehow, they chose to locate near Campbell, where they bought farms and then returned to Kentucky to await the time they could get possession of all the farm houses.

"The men of the families followed a predetermined schedule, the wagon train arriving on the specified day. In addition to household furnishings and other possessions, most of the vehicles also included several coops of chickens, with the livestock following the lumbering wagons.

"Arriving in Campbell on the Texas-St. Louis Railroad passenger train on the same day, according to the plan, were W. R. (Bob) Oliver and the women folk and the younger children of the families.

"Of the several dozen persons who arrived in Campbell via wagon train and railroad on that October day of 75 years ago, only two are living today. The survivors are D. S. Veatch of Campbell, who observed his 93rd birthday last month, and Mrs. Myrtee (Stanfill) Tucker of Dexter."
