Albert Gould Dod was one of Knox County's best known farmers and a leading citizen, residing on "Meadow Farm" in Bee Ridge for fifty eight years. He was born in Danville, Ky., April 24, 1839. A part of his boyhood was spent in New York City, but in 1856 he settled with his parents on the above mentioned farm, where he died Sept. 4, 1914. He was married Feb. 25, 1897 to Miss Nettie L. Dodd, of Wichita, Kansas. His wife and five children, Albert Gould, Jr., Lily Moore, Will Clifton, Ruth Esther and Dorothy Olive, still survive him and are still living on the old farm, which has been in the family for four generations. Mr. Dod was a man of more than ordinary intellectual ability, an elder in the Presbyterian church and a college man, receiving his education at Illinois College, Jacksonville, Ill., where he received high honors. He was a soldier for the union, serving in the Second Missouri Cavalry, from the outbreak till the close of the Civil war and was commended in writing by his commander for an act of special bravery on the battle field. He was also General Rosecrans private secretary during a part of that time. Mr. Dod was a republican in politics and had the honor of being twice elected to serve the county in the Legislature, during times when the county was strongly democratic, i. e., the twenty-sixth and the thirty-fifth General Assemblies, or the years 1870 and 1889 respectively. He was a broad minded man and always had the public good next his heart, his motto at all times being, "the greatest good to the greatest number." While in the Legislature he devoted his entire attention to the duties of his office. He received much commendation from the press, for a bill which he succeeded in getting put through just as it was drafted by him, which abolished a number of sinecure clerkships in the various departments of the state government and which fixed the number of clerks in these different departments for future years; thus resulting in a saving of about $15,000 annually to our taxpayers. Mr. Dod being at that time a bachelor, the Speaker of the House complimented him by saying, "if you never have become the father of anything else, you have become a successful one of a good law." And from other counties came congratulations to old Knox county in her choice of a Representative, who was "an able and honest Legislator."
