Mr. James Ellis Murray, Rogers, Ark., has written 2 books, 'Murray Genealogy', and 'Ball Genealogy', that has names of this area in it, and may prove helpful to researchers, both of his books are indexed.

The area newspaper is: 'Leader-Statesman,

Bethlehem

Rural Church

Northwest of Versailles, Mo.; Northeast of Stover, Mo. Hawcreek Township.

This church is often referred to as the "Nolting" church, because a large number of its members were of that surname. Judge Herman Nolting resides near this church.

Services were discontinued here, several years ago. However the cemetery is kept mowed, and a strong fence and nice gate protect this burial spot.

North of Versailles, is the D highway. On D, turn west at the old Bethel rural School, and go west—that is the way to go.

Location: Section 7, T. 43 N., Range 18 W., Hawcreek Township, in Morgan County, Mo.

There were several unmarked graves.

Many of these inscriptions were in German, there were some words that I could not read. Am sure I've made some mistakes, but hope this will provide a clue to researchers. Tried to copy all markers in the cemetery.

Mr. Harry Nolting, Stover, Mo. attended this church for many years, and probably knows as much of this area history and its people, as any one; maybe he would answer a letter.

CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH CEMETERY
OTTERVILLE, MO.

This cemetery is in Cooper County, Mo.

The Bowling Green Congregation of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, was organized Sept. 23, 1821.

In the year 1836, the place of holding camp meetings was changed to what was called, by consent, Pleasant Grove. The name of the congregation was also changed from Bowling Green to Pleasant Grove. Here, the Cumberland Presbyterians erected the first church of the community. It was of logs and stood near the old graveyard. It was built around 1836. For many years the Cumberland Presbyterians annually held their old fashioned camp meetings here, at which large numbers of the citizens were wont to congregate and here many of them would remain for days, or weeks, on the ground in camps and tents, engaged in earnest devotion.

On April 6, 1857 the name of the congregation was changed from Pleasant Grove to Otterville. The town of Otterville was incorporated by an act of the Legislature of Mo. on the 16th of Feb. 1857. This same year, 1857, the Cumberland Presbyterians, erected the first church in the town of Otterville. It was built by Milton Starke.

(The above information was taken from the Leaflet
"One Hundred Twenty-Fifth Anniversary The First Presbyterian Church, Otterville, Mo.
1821-1946")

This cemetery is near the Wm. H. McKnight, Otterville, Mo. farm in Cooper Co. Mo. This cemetery is located Northwest of, and in view of the Otterville Mo. School.

I was told that there were some slaves buried in this cemetery. This cemetery is fenced, has grown up in weeds and trees, and is neglected. Burials in this area at present are made in the newer Odd Fellow Cemetery, north of Otterville, Mo. Cooper County.

I had been to Otterville, Mo. several times, but this is the first time I had heard of this cemetery.

I do not know if the plat of this cemetery is in existence or not; but it would be of great benefit, as there were many sunken graves marked only by a rock with not identification. I copied all markers that I could find in the dense brush and weeds.

Copied Oct. 8, 1960, by Mrs. Gerald Yarnell, Versailles, Mo.
