ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Second-edition graves located to the west of Going to the Sun Road and just east of the free-ground area (see pages 1 through 9) were copied by Ann Dawson and Bonnie Smith, members of Pike County Chapter DAR.

Graves on the South side of Riverview Cemetery in section 2 were copied by the following ladies: Maxine Farrar, Paulette Powelson, Berniece Strutman, Carolyn Scott, Janet Wilson, Carla Conley, Bonnie O'Shea, and Elizabeth Flaherty, chairman of the Music Boosters. For their effort, Pike County Chapter DAR made a donation to the Music Boosters. The area copied includes graves on lots or blocks 1 through 93, A through X, 104 through 108, 120 through 124, 137 through 140 plus 155, 156 and 172. This includes pages 11 through 65. The area copied is shown on page 10.

Second-edition graves beginning with the Stark Circle on page 65 and continuing through page 72 were copied by Bill and Rosemary Brown. This area includes the Northeast corner of the diagram shown on page 10.

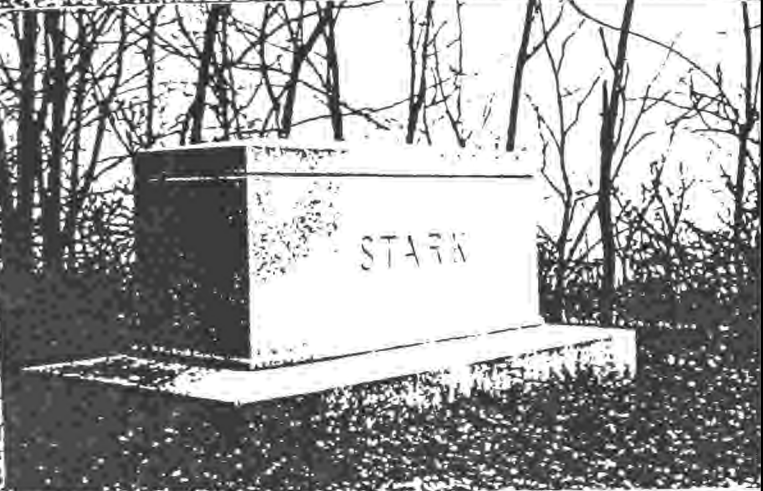

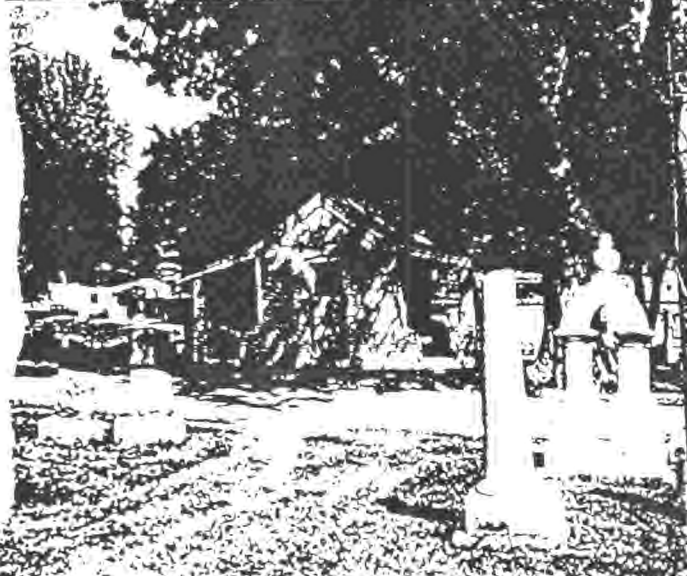

Buffums Addition which is actually considered a part of the Second Addition by the City of Louisiana begins on page 73 and ends on page 76. It, too, was copied by Bill and Rosemary Brown.

Burials from Cemetery Records which starts on page 77 results from a comparison of those stones actually copied in the cemetery with those burials recorded by the Sexton. If the burial was not copied, then it is included in the book from the cemetery record. If there is no birth record, you can usually assume that that burial came from the sexton's record. The comparison of these records was done by Rosemary Brown. She also indexed the book and organized and typed the book.

MAP OF PIKE COUNTY

LOUISIANA, SITE OF RIVERVIEW CEMETERY

The city of Louisiana, Missouri is situated on the eastern border of Buffalo Township, just south of the confluence of Salt River with the Mississippi. On the northern edge of the city are bluffs and hills which gradually turn toward the West forming a crescent-shape around the city. Early French explorers referred to this region as the "Land of the Golden Hills". Lewis and Clark explored the Louisiana Territory in 1804-1806 and some of their descendants still reside in Pike County today, nearly two centuries later.

During the War of 1812, Buffalo Fort was built near this area for the protection of early settlers from hostile Indians. During a surprise attack in 1813 two of the early settlers, Robert Jordan and his son James, were massacred. Today a monument erected at the entrance to Buffalo Cemetery commemorates these two men who gave their lives and honors the early Pioneers who settled in this area.

The site on which Louisiana is built was first owned by John Bryson who came here from South Carolina in the fall of 1816. Joel Shaw and Samuel Caldwell bought part of Bryson's claim in 1818, the part nearest the river, and had it laid out in lots by James Jones the first county surveyor. Missouri became a state in 1821 and Louisiana was incorporated in 1824. At the same time that John Bryson was establishing his claim, twenty-four year old James Hart Stark crossed the river from Illinois into Missouri where the city of Louisiana now stands. He carried with him a bundle of apple scions from his father's farm in Bourbon County, Kentucky -- the meager beginning of what was to become one of the largest nurseries in the country, Stark Brothers Nurseries. James Stark's apple groves were planted on the west side of Louisiana at the same time as the city was laid out.

The first settlers of Buffalo Township came from the Carolinas, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky, all southern states. These southern settlers brought their slaves to this area to work the land; these southern settlers built large homes in the 1800s, homes that reflect the charm and architecture of the deep South. We hold these southern settlers responsible for the fact that this area of Missouri is called "Little Dixie" today. Missouri, a border State, provided soldiers for both sides during the Civil War. In Pike county some families were divided by brothers fighting on opposite sides -- one a Confederate soldier, the other a member of the Union Army. Riverview Cemetery contains the only Civil War Monument in Pike County and numerous GAR (Grand Army of the Republic) graves are located in the areas to the left and right of the monument.

In the early 1800s Louisiana relied primarily on lumbering and agriculture for its prosperity. In the middle of the 19th century there were a large tobacco industry, brick making, dry-goods stores & a ferry boat that made regular crossings from Louisiana to Illinois.

Louisiana was the 12th largest city in the state with a population of 2436 in 1860. Following the Civil War, railroads became an important factor in the growth of the city. The first iron railroad bridge was constructed across the Mississippi in 1872 causing an expectation on the part of the populace that Louisiana was going to develop into a large city. Many large homes were built but the population of the city reached its zenith in the middle of the 1880s. Since that time it has seen a gradual decline which even continues to the present 4500 residents today. All ferry traffic was eliminated in 1928 when the Champ Clark bridge (known as the "Gateway to the West") linked Louisiana to the Illinois shore. The bountiful history of this city was acknowledged by our state and federal governments when the downtown central business district was placed on the Nat'l. Register of Historic Places in 1987.

Louisiana boasts a number of famous citizens. Among them are James Beauchamp (Champ) Clark, 1850-1921, a teacher and principal of Louisiana High School and later, U.S. Congressman, Speaker of the House of Representatives and finally, candidate for the President of the United States; John B. Henderson, 1826-1913, a lawyer in Louisiana who became a member of the State Legislature and then the U.S. Senator who authored the 13th and. to the Constitution abolishing slavery; Lloyd Crow Stark, 1886-1972, an associate of Stark Bros. Nurseries who later became Governor of the State of Missouri in 1936 and was credited with the destruction of Tom Pendergast's powerful, political machine in Kansas City; R. R. Rowley, 1854-1935, a teacher in Louisiana who became a world-renowned scientist known for his broad collection of butterflies and fossils.

There is no actual date for the beginning of Riverview Cemetery. According to the Sexton of the cemetery, it is believed that the early settlers began using the area known today as the Old Cemetery for burials, and continued that use over the years which gradually increased the size of the burial ground. Care of the cemetery was left to the families who had loved ones buried there. The Pike County Chapter of DAR was organized on Feb. 10, 1911 and, at their 4th meeting, the members took on their first memorial project which was the building of a stone wall and ornamental gateway for the entrance to Riverview Cemetery plus the building of a sexton's office. At the same time they formed the Louisiana Cemetery Association to finance the project and provide permanent care for the cemetery lots. Since a fire had previously destroyed cemetery records, they provided record books for each section of the cemetery and they proceeded, along with the assistance of the sexton, to reconstruct the records of the burials in the cemetery. As a result, there are some instances in the records where names have been recorded more than once, and other instances where burials have never been recorded. This system functioned for fifty-three years until the cemetery was turned over to the city in 1966.
