CEMETERY RECORDS
OF
PLATTE COUNTY, MISSOURI
COMPILED BY
THE PLATTE COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY
1945 -- 1960

US
Missouri
V22pct

Dedicated to the memory of the generations
that have lived and died in Platte County, Missouri in the fervent hope that it will prove of value to generations yet to come.

This work is the product of many hands and it is faulty in many respects. It is a record, however, of many old Burying Grounds that are rapidly being obliterated in the ruthless march of time and progress. This record is not finished and it will never be finished, but it is hopefully predicted that future historians will strive faithfully to carry on this memorial effort. FBH

The two Clay brothers, Johnson and William, whose wives were sisters, camped on Plattsburg Prairie with their families (one had seven children, the other six), awaiting the day in February, 1837 that they might enter the Platte Purchase. They settled on farms about a mile apart on the old Turnpike. William's farm is now owned by Elmer Blankenship and the 120 year old house, later weather ^{boarded} over, was torn down in February 1957, and a new home built on the same site. Johnson Clay's farm, a mile east, is now owned by John Richard Owans. The Clay burying ground is located on this farm. A handsome gray granite stone marker indicates the graves of the two brothers and their wives. These are the names found on the stones in October, 1958. S/ Susan Matney

Higgins, Josiah, b. 1782 in Tennessee, d. 8-8-1841

Higgins, Barbara Smelser, his wife, b. 1779, d. 5-24-1840

Higgins, Ellen, dau. of Andrew Jackson and Susan Gregg Higgins, and grand-daughter of Josiah and Barbara Higgins, b. 11-9-1844, d. 5-20-1853. The exact location of these three graves is unknown, but, according to Mrs. Ella Lewis Staggs, of Agency, Mo., a sister of Mary Ellen Higgins, they were buried on a farm owned by Josiah Higgins, "just east of the Strang farm". The Higgins, Strang and Dean families, all related, lived in Pettis Township 50 - Range 34 - Sections 9 and 10, but an atlas dated 1877 shows no burying ground in that location. The three graves were covered by flat stone slab markers. The following five Higgins graves are in WALNUT GROVE CEMETERY on Highway 71 just outside Parkville, Mo.

To Whom It May Concern:

The data contained in the foregoing pages is the complete census of all remaining gravestones standing to this date in LAUREL HILL CEMETERY, with the exception of several stones dated prior to 1902 and after 1850. This exception was made because the existing Sexton's records kept of all burials in Laurel Hill between those dates. The Sexton's record is now the property of the LAUREL HILL CEMETERY ASSOCIATION, WESTON, MISSOURI.

Signed, Mrs. J. W. Devina
Director of Research, P.C.H.S.
