SEARCH FOR TOMORROW

My name is Bill Wheeler. I'm a private eye. It's 10:13 p.m., Tuesday, May 27, 1968. I know it's 10:13 because since 8:00 my secretary, Thelma McClain has combed her hair twice and powdered her nose three times. As Thelma is combing her hair for the third time the phone rings. Lifting the receiver to my ear, I am confronted with the silky voice of chorus girl, Clara Jean Brown. Clara tells me she has a hot tip about the playboy, Louis (Hot Lips) Bodo. Desperately she pleads with me to come to the Silver Star. It's now 10:49 p.m. I know it is, for while I was riding in one of the City Cabs, we had been stopped four times by Flatfoot Wagner. My cabby, Billy Kirk, pulled up at the club. The doorman, Jose Alcala, ushered me to the hat check girl, Mary Diviney, short for FiFi. Entering the club I notice oilman, Clyde Williams, with his wife, the former Carolyn Roberts. Carol is drooling over the famous Trombonist Johnny Hensley (Glenn). In the orchestra, I see the famed violinist, Annora Lynch. The orchestra is accompanying the "Two Hits and a Miss", Anna Dinkins, Margaret Hamlet, and Pinky Montgomery. The photographer, Willis Womack, was mingling with the crowd. The head waiter, Joe Ruebush, led me to the table of some of my old friends, Robert Minnick, Mary Feltner, and Annis Shores. Mary is President of the State Beverage Control. Robert and Annis are her faithful assistants. Seated next to us are the Mayor, Dennis Hall, and his councilmen, Robert Cantrell, Rodney Gilbert, and also the D.A., Carol Bell. The Mayor and his councilmen are talking to Judges, Charles Thompson, and Darrell York; Carol is keeping a close eye on the club bouncer, Bill Zorumski. The bartender, Ken DeWitt, motions me to the bar. Once there he tells me that Clara is in the kitchen. I met her there. Also in the kitchen was the chef, D.J. Huffman and his cooks, Juliet Benetua, Terry Tabler, and Anne Miller. Above the clatter of the pots and pans by the dishwasher, Johnny Thomas, I was told the tip. "Hot Lips" had told his gun Moll, Sharon Cusick, he was going to tell the Jr.----Oh, No! Not that! At the thought of this I fainted.

My name is Thelma, secretary to Bill Wheeler, Private Eye. I'm strictly a square. I know I'm a square, for I have four sides; front, back, inside, and outside. I'm working on this case, too. After taking the Boss to the office, I start out to "Hot Lips" hang-out, the warehouse. I walked to the warehouse. On the way I overhear street cleaners, Eula Burnett, and Charlene Cusick discussing the class of '57. Not caring to be reminded of the good old days, I continue. On the corner, Neil Rublee and Frieda Humphrey are selling hot tamales. I'm almost struck by an oncoming car as I cross the street. The driver is Carol Wells. With her is Marjorie Wagner and the back seat driver, Tommy Wagner. Carol is an Automobile Insurance Salesman. Jumping to the curb, I almost stumbled over Jim Lawson, the reporter of the Fort Wood Times. Willis was here trying to get an action shot for a contest sponsored by the Tiger Rag. Once in the warehouse, I approach the delivery clerk, Everette Fritts. He sends me to the shipping department. I asked the girl behind the desk, Nellie Beals, if "Hot Lips" was in the building. She said "He was in the back room a minute ago talking to the bookkeeper, Irene Williams." The scene in the back room was quite a striking one. The Mayor and the D.A. were there inspecting all boxes for any stolen rat's eyelashes. Irene informed me that "Hot Lips" just left in search of hot lead. I've returned to the office to report. While rehashing the case for clues, we notice a tall blond walking past our window. We know she's tall for our office is on the fourth floor. 12:35, we question a suspect--Name: Frieda Humphrey, Occupation: Salesman. We didn't believe her. Dumped her purse and examined contents. Then it hit us, our clue. In her purse was a picture of "Hot Lips" warehouse. Released suspect and trailed her to warehouse. We caught "Hot Lips" and turned him over to Chief of Police, Bill Kirk, and his deputies, Neil Rublee and Terry Tabler. His crime was worse than murder. He was going to tell the Juniors the date of Senior Skip Day.

The case is cracked, so we settled down for a cup of coffee and a look at the paper. There is a knock at the door. It's Wells and Bells in the little white coats to take us back to the "Waynesville Rest Home."
