HISTORY OF RANDOLPH AND MACON COUNTIES, 1884

Pioneer Life

Pages 100, 101

The people in the early history of Randolph county took no care to preserve history--they were too busily engaged in making it. Historically speaking, those were the most important years of the county, for it was then the foundation and corner-stones of all the county's history and prosperity were laid. Yet this history was not remarkable for stirring events. It was, however a time of self-reliance and brave, persevering toil; of privations cheerfully endured through faith in a good time coming. The experience of one settler was just about the same as that of others. Nearly all of the settlers were poor; they faced the same hardships and stood generally on an equal footing.

All the experience of the early pioneers of this county goes far to confirm the theory that, after all, happiness is pretty evenly balanced in this world. They had their privations and hardships, but they had also their own peculiar joys. If they were poor, they were free from the burden of pride and vanity; free also from the anxiety and care that always attends the possession of wealth. Other people's eyes cost them nothing. If they had few neighbors, they were on the best of terms with those they had. Envy, jealousy and strife had not crept in. A common interest and a common sympathy bound them together with the strongest ties. They were a little world to themselves, and the good feeling that prevailed was all the stronger because they were so far removed from the great world of the East.

Among these pioneers there was realized such a community of interest that there existed a community of feeling. There were no castes, except an aristocracy of benevolence, and no nobility, except a nobility of generosity. They were bound together with such a strong bond of sympathy, inspired by the consciousness of common hardship, that they were practically communists.

Neighbors did not even wait for an invitation or request to help one another. Was a settler's cabin burned or blown down? No sooner was the fact known throughout the neighborhood than the settlers assembled to assist the unfortunate one to rebuild his home. They came with as little hesitation, and with as much alacrity, as though they were all members of the same family and bound together by ties of blood. One man's interest was every other man's interest. Now, this general state of feeling among the pioneers was by no means peculiar to these counties, although it was strongly illustrated here. It prevailed generally throughout the West during the time of the early settlement. The very nature of things taught the settlers the necessity of dwelling together in this spirit. It was their only protection. They had come far away from the well established reign of law, and entered a new country, where civil authority was still feeble, and totally unable to afford protection and redress grievances. Here the settlers lived some little time before there was an officer of the law in the county. Each man's protection was in the good will and friendship of those about him, and the thing that any man might well dread was the ill will of the community. It was more terrible than the law. It was no uncommon thing in the early times for hardened men, who had no fears of jails or penitentiaries, to stand in great fear of the indignation of a pioneer community. Such were some of the characteristics of Randolph county.

HISTORY OF RANDOLPH AND MACON COUNTIES, 1884

Physical Features

Pages 133 and 134

Randolph county is situated in the north-east central part of the State and is bounded on the north by Macon and Shelby, on the east by Monroe and Audrain, on the south by Howard and Boone counties, and on the west by Chariton county. It contains 307,677 acres. The Grand Divide between the Mississippi and Missouri rivers passes in a northern direction through the eastern part of the county, leaving more than one-fourth on the east drained by streams running to the Mississippi, while on the west the streams flow into the Missouri. The slopes east of this divide and near the prairie are gentle, but as the streams enlarge, the hills are larger also. In the west, along Silver creek, the county is quite hilly. Between the Chariton and Sweet Spring, in the west, the land is rolling and undulating. The slopes adjacent to Dark and Muncus creeks are gentle, becoming more hilly near the Middle fork of the Chariton. In the northern part of the county, between the East and Middle forks, the country is undulating. Near the East fork, Walnut and Sugar creek, it is quite hilly. The prairie east of the Grand Divide, with the timber skirting it, composes about one-third of the county, and is finely adapted to farming, stock raising and general agricultural pursuits. The western part of the county is mostly timbered land, interspersed, however, with rich prairie, and is of superior productive qualities. The timber is principally elm, cottonwood, shell-bark hickory, linden and burr, swamp. red, white and black oak, sycamore, blackberry, birch, sugar and white maple. There are some large bodies of very rich land in different portions of the county. The bottoms of the East and Middle forks of the Grand Chariton and Sweet Spring creeks are very flat, but have generally been sufficiently drained to be cultivated, and are very productive.

There are several prairies in the county which contain very superior land for agricultural purposes. The creek bottoms are wonderfully rich, and where not too flat, or being flat have been drained, they produce remarkable crops of the cereals and grasses. About one-half of the county is prairie. The physical features of Randolph will be more clearly set forth in the descriptions of the various townships. It is sufficient here to say that the county is rich in the productive energy that characterizes the soil of Central Missouri.

He lived in the south-western part of Randolph county, and on the same farm, for over 40 years, and among the people of Randolph and Howard counties he resided for a period of nearly three-score years. For 55 years he was an earnest, faithful and more than ordinarily useful minister of the gospel in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. He was a Virginian by nativity, and bringing up, and inherited most of the better qualities of the typical true-hearted, chivalrous minded Virginia gentleman. He was a son of Robert Davis, one of the best men of Rockingham county, and was born in that county April 3, 1795, being the seventh in a family of eight children. Reared in his native county, he early decided to cast his fortunes with the great country beyond the Mississippi, and away back in 1819, became a pioneer settler in Howard county, Mo. Mr. Davis had served in the War of 1812, under Gen. Porterfield, Capt. R. Erwin's company of Virginia militia volunteers. December 29, 1815 he was married in Virginia, to Miss Mary Herring, of Rockingham county. She died December 16, 1855. Nine children were the fruits of their long and happy married life, namely; James H., who died in boyhood; Matilda H., who died in 1876, the wife of Samuel Burton; Mary, now Mrs. W. I. Ferguson; Nancy M., who died in 1873, the wife of J. D. Burton; Virginia, now the widow of Thomas Taylor; Rebecca F., who died in maidenhood; Sarah A., who died in 1866, the wife of William H. Johnston; Robert H., who died in boyhood, and Martha J., now the wife of A. Bradsher Clifton. Mr. Davis was married May 5, 1857, to Mrs. Harriet, the widow of David Little. She was born in Rockingham county, Va., and was a daughter of Paul Shreckhise. She has one child by her last marriage, Samuel C., and is still living on the old homestead.

Mr. Davis, besides attending to his duties as a minister, was a successful farmer and was for many years largely engaged in growing, not only the usual crops of the time, but tobacco, flax, hemp, etc., in which he was quite successful. He owned some 16 slaves before the war, but these, of course, were taken away by the Emancipation Proclamation. He built one of the first mills ever erected in this part of the county, a large water mill, and conducted it successfully for many years.

WILLIAM G. GRIFFIN

Page 15

The biography of the Griffin family, or at least the branch of it to which the subjects of this sketch belong, leads back to long prior to the War of the Revolution, and its representatives are all as worthy as men and citizens as the older ones are remarkable for their longevity. The Griffins settled in Virginia from England soon after the colony at Jamestown was founded, and from the Old Dominion branches of the family have spread out into the other States. William G. Griffin's father, James Griffin, was born in Culpeper county, Va., in about 1758, and grew up in that county, where he was subsequently married to Miss Delphia Adams, one year his junior. James Griffin and his father served in the army of Virginia under Washington during the war for Independence, James being only seventeen years of age when he enlisted. After the war he came to Kentucky and settled, where he reared a large family of children and lived until his death, which was in 1853, when he was in the ninety-fifth year of his age. His wife died also in Kentucky, in 1843, in the eighty-fourth year of her age. Of their family of seven sons and three daughters, most of whom lived to rear families of their own, but two are now living--Parmelia, the widow of William Reynolds, of Pulaski county, Ky., and now in the eighty-third year of her age; and William G.

William G. Griffin was born in Pulaski county, Ky. May 13, 1803, and was reared in that county. In 1838 he came to Missouri and located in Ralls county, but the following year came over into Macon county, and from Macon to Randolph in 1865. On the 6th of January, 1839, he was married to Miss Anna Griffin, a second cousin of his, and formerly of Kentucky. Five of the family of children resulting from this union are living: John H., of Macon county, recorder of deeds; Sarah J., the wife of Morgan Cox; Louisa, the wife of F. G. Johnston; Mary A., the wife of John L. McKinney and James G.

THOMAS W. HALLIBURTON

He was in the seventy-ninth year of his age, having been born October 21, 1803 in N. C. The mother, still living, was born in Tennessee, Mar. 9, 1807, and they were married in Apr. 1825. Six of their four sons and six daughters are living: Thomas W., Frances B., now Mrs. James H. Halliburton, having married a cousin; Nancy A., the wife of John Benum, now of Oregon; James W., of Sullivan county; John W., also of that county, and Eliza M., the wife of Peter Scarlett, of Kansas. Thomas W. had grown to manhood before the family came to Missouri and was married in Tennessee to Miss Martha E. Rogers on the 14th of January, 1847. She was born in Dixon county, December 10, 1828. They have nine sons and six daughters, of whom there are ten in all living, and all residents of Randolph county: John A., born Oct. 2, 1851; Elizabeth B., born Dec. 17, 1853; Thomas McM., born Dec. 24, 1855; E. R., born Nov. 23, 1858; G. D., born Sept. 17, 1860; Ophelia F., born Sept. 14, 1862; Cynthia J., born February 28, 1864; James M., born Feb. 26, 1866; Samuel M., born Sept. 25, 1868; Sarah M., born Dec. 11, 1870; W. E. Page 658

Page 17

Daniel McKinney, father of Hiram McKinney, was born in Lincoln county, Ky., on the 13th of January, 1802, and he married Miss Eliza Brown in 1833. The following year he came to Missouri, locating in Randolph county, where for 48 years he labored unceasingly for the material development of the county. Campbell, who settled here also in about 1833, coming from Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. McK. have but one child, Sophia J., born Oct. 12, 1873. Two are deceased, Evelena and Nora Lee.

MARQUES D. L. PATTON

Page 1

It was in 1837 that Thomas Patton and wife, whose maiden name was Mary Stinson, with their family of children, emigrated from Tennessee to Missouri, and settled in Randolph county. He was a wheelwright by occupation, and followed that in this county until his death which occurred March 5, 1842. He was born in Alabama in 1790. She was born in South Carolina in 1804 and died in this county January 7, 1883. But four of their family of 11 children are living: Rhoda, the wife of William Mayo, of Benton county, Arkansas; Marques D. L., Nancy M., the wife of Richard Cromwell, and Thomas Jr. Marques D. L. Patton was born in this county Mar. 3, 1837, and his home has been in this county from that day to this. On the 1st of March, 1860, he was married to Miss Mary C. Cromwell, and five sons and four daughters have been the fruits of their union, but five of whom are now living: Nora B., Charles A., Stephen C., Mary H. and Freddie M. Mrs. Patton is a native of Kentucky, born February 25, 1839. Her parents were Joseph W. and Martha Cromwell, who came to this county in 1856.

WILLIAM SURBER

Page 8

Toward the early settlement of Mo., and particularly this section of the State, Va., contributed more sturdy, brave-hearted pioneers than any State in the Union. Among those who came out in an early day from the Old Dominion were the parents of Mr. Surber and their family, who settled in Randolph county, where the father, Jacob Surber, lived until his death, which occurred in the seventy-ninth year of his age, and in 1865; the mother, whose maiden name was Nancy Wagoner, preceded him to the grave in 1864. They had six sons and six daughters, and three sons and four daughters are living: James W., Mary J., wife of Elijah Elder; William, Maria, the wife of George Halley; Caroline, the wife of J. W. Barnes; Antonette, the wife of James Moody, and John T. B. The deceased are Emeline, Joseph, Charles T., George A. and Harriet. William Surber was born in Virginia, Jan. 4, 1827, and was reared on a farm. On the 25th of August, 1852, he was married to Miss Martha Walker, also originally of Virginia, born Jan. 10, 1830, but at the time of her marriage a resident of Macon county, this State. Mr. and Mrs. Surber have four children: Alice G., the wife of John C. McCanne, of Jacksonville, Mo.; Robert P., Birdie W. and Nettie L., twins; the latter the wife of H. J. Humphrey, of Jacksonville, Mo., and Lutie.

MILTON WILLIAMS

Rev. Mr. Williams was a son of Rev. Lewis Williams who has been well termed in the "History of the Baptists in Missouri" "The prince of pioneer ministers.". After him came his eldest son, Rev. Alvin P. Williams, who for many years stood at the head of the Baptist clergy of Missouri. The father was from North Carolina and came to this then Territory in 1797, being at that time 13 years of age. He was of course without education but finally learned to read and became a Baptist minister. His career in the church was that of one of the most successful preachers of his time. He organized churches and planted the banner of the cross in every settlement of white men in North-eastern and Central Missouri, and to this day the strength and importance of that denomination in these sections of the State is probably more largely due to his ministry than to the services of any other clergyman of his denomination of his time. All four of his sons, Alvin P., Perry D., Isaiah T. and Milton F. became Baptist ministers, and five of his grandsons, the sons of his daughters, also became ministers in the same church.

Rev. Milton F. Williams was born in Franklin county, Mo., Jan. 11, 1826, and was about 13 years his eldest brother's junior. On the 22nd of January, 1846, he was married to Miss Mary Brown, a daughter of William Brown of St. Clair county, but originally of Washington county, Ky. They have no children, their only child having died in infancy. Mr. Williams mother was a Miss Nancy Jump, whose influence upon her children was very marked. Besides the four sons named, there were four daughters: Isabella became the wife of William Murphy; Mary became the wife of William Cooper; the eldest, Eliza, became the wife of John Whitmire; and the second eldest, Lavisa, became the wife of Henry Dent. The grandmother of the Williams' boys was a woman of fine intelligence, great strength of character, and from an early age, in North Carolina, an earnest member of the Baptist Church. It was largely through her influence that her son, Lewis Williams, the father of Milton, became a member of the church and afterwards a Baptist minister, thus giving by his course eight prominent ministers in after years to the Baptist denomination
