JUDGE DANIEL J. STAMPER

Judge Stamper, the eldest son of 'Squire Hiram Stamper, whose sketch precedes this, was born in Owen county, Ky., November 24, 1834, and was reared in his native county. His boyhood and youth, up to the age of 15, were spent on the farm of his father in that county, but in 1829 the family removed to Owenton, the county seat, where the father took charge of a mill, and from that time forward young Stamper had the benefit of the excellent local schools of Owenton. Having a taste for study, he made a zealous student and advanced rapidly in the acquisition of the knowledge to be had from study in a common English course. Before reaching his majority he became well fitted for school teaching and, being requested to take charge of a school in the county, he accepted the position and was quite successful as a teacher. Industrious, faithful and as anxious to inspire in his pupils a love of knowledge as he, himself, was zealous in its pursuit, he became a most efficient teacher, and obtained a wide popularity. He taught schools in Kentucky for about five years with increasing reputation and success, and being a constant student himself, he steadily advances in position in that calling and became a teacher of considerable prominence, in Kentucky. In 1854 he went to Iowa and taught for about a year, and from Iowa came to Missouri, where he taught for two years more. Prior to this, however, Judge Stamper had married, that is, on the 3rd of September, 1856, when Miss Mary A. Holbrook became his wife. She was a daughter of Martin and Eliza (Cobb) Holbrook, originally of North Carolina, but was herself born and reared in Owen county, and in girlhood was a pupil of Judge Stamper. Two years after his marriage Judge Stamper located on a farm in Clifton township of Randolph county, and has since devoted himself to agricultural pursuits, or, rather, except when occupied with public affairs. Judge Stamper, to begin with, was a young gentleman of superior intelligence and spirit, possessing many of the stronger and better attributes of sterling manhood and useful citizenship. Added to this, he obtained quite an excellent general education both by study and by long experience as a teacher. It is therefore only as was to have been expected that he would take a prominent place as a citizen of the county. As a farmer he has ever been a man of industry and enterprise, with an intelligent grasp of the conditions and influence necessary to be brought to bear to achieve success and to advance the general interest of agriculture in his community. He has a fine farm, and by his own energy and good management has long since succeeded in establishing himself comfortably in life. The year after coming to Randolph county he was appointed justice of the peace of Salt Spring, now Clifton township, such was the readiness with which his character, ability, and business qualifications were recognized at his new home. At the following election he was elected to the same office by a majority highly complimentary to his personal popularity. Following this he filled the office, in all, some eight years, and was thereupon advanced by the whole people of the county to the honorable and responsible position of judge of the county court. Judge Stamper continued to hold that office until a year ago, nearly fifteen years, and as long as he would consent to serve the people in that capacity. To no citizen of Randolph county is it necessary to speak of the reputation which Judge Stamper bears as a public officer. His high character and popularity are recognized in every district and around every hearthstone, and every door is thrown open to him with a hearty welcome wherever he goes. It is the services of the good and true men of every country that constitute its honor and glory, and it is with pride that every loyal citizen points to these services and speaks of the men whom his country has produced. The fame of our best citizens is our greatest honor, and this we all cherish and guard with jealous care. Thus the people of Randolph county regard the lives and wervices of such of their fellow-citizens as him whose name heads this sketch. Though his station in life has not been the most distinguished, his services have been not less honorable nor less appreciated than those of any public men within the borders of the county, and his name commands respect wherever it is spoken. Judge and Mrs. Stamper have a family of seven children: Martin L., Hiram M., Porter B., Eliza C., Lena J., Martha R. and Willie L. The Judge and wife have been members of the Baptist Church at Clifton Hill since its organization, and Judge is a moderator in his denomination. He is also one of the charter members of the Masonic order at Clifton Hill.

Dr. Baker, one of the leading and influential citizens of the northwestern part of the county, and a brother to Dr. P. S.

Baker, whose sketch precedes this, being some years the latter's senior, and whose biography ought to perhaps to have been given first on that account, is, like his younger brother, a native Missourian. Reference has already been had to the family of which he was a member, so that those facts need not be repeated here. It may be mentioned, however, that the Doctor's parents died, the father in 1861, and the mother two years later. Dr. Baker was born on the family homestead in Johnson county, in 1837, and was reared to manhood on the farm. In 1860, being then 23 years of age, he began the study of medicine, and after a two years' course he commenced the practice of his profession, and has continued since. He has also followed farming and stock-raising, and both in his practice and as an agriculturist he has been quite successful. While engaged in these pursuits in Johnson county, times became so critical that, being a Southern man, it was not safe for him to remain at home, and accordingly, in 1864, he joined the Confederate army, becoming a member of the command of that fiery, doughty cavalry chieftain of Missouri, Gen. Joe Shelby. His skill and ability as a physician and surgeon soon became recognized in the army, and he was appointed surgeon on the medical branch of the service. He remained with his command doing his duty faithfully as a surgeon and gallantly as a soldier, until the general surrender at Shreveport, La., in April, 1865. On his return home he was one of the passengers on the unfortunate steamer "Kentucky," by the wreck of which so many of the brave soldiers on board, who had faced death for more than four long years, lost their lives. The Doctor, escaping, came on home to Missouri, reaching his own hearthstone June 25, 1865. All his personal property was lost by the war, but he at once went to work with fortitude and courage to repair his fortune. He resumed the practice of his profession and also farming and handling stock, principally cattle and mules. Later along he came to Clifton Hill, and contiguous to this place he bought the farm on which he now resides. Here he has since continued the practice and agricultural pursuits. Dr. Baker is a public-spirited citizen, and is a recognized leader in affairs in his section of the county. He at present represents his Democratic co-partisans in the county central committee. In 1865 Dr. Baker was married to Miss Jennie W. Henderson, of this county. She was a daughter of John H. and Frances A. (Gray) Henderson, both originally of Orange county, Va., who came to Missouri in 1835, locating in Randolph county. The mother died in 1880, and the father is now a resident of Salisbury, in Chariton county. They had a family of seven children: John W., Mary S. F., Sue M., Jennie W., Thelbert G., and one who died in infancy. The father is again married. The Doctor and Mrs. Baker have had four children: Arthur G., Jennie B., Wilfred Lee and Sallie S.

The Coctor is a prominent member of the Masonic order and of the I. O. O. F.

Mr. Rodgers, who owns and conducts the only hotel at this place, for the reason that he is so popular as to render competition impracticable, and who is one of the enterprising citizens of the town and a substantial property holder both here and of land in the country, is a native of the Old Dominion and is a self-made man, for he commenced after the war without a dollar, and has made all he has by his own industry and good management. Mr. Rodgers was born in Rockingham county, Virginia, Aug. 12, 1833, and was a son of John Rodgers and Mary H., nee Lamb; the father born in 1806 and the mother in 1809, the former of English descent and the latter of Irish ancestry. The father's father was a gallant soldier in the Revolutionary War and served under Washington from Virginia until the British Lion had been driven from our shore by the American Eagle. In 1851 J. F. Rodgers, then a youth some 18 years of age, came to Missouri with his parents, who settled in Morgan County, where the father improved a large farm, having brought with him some seventeen head of negroes from Virginia. J. F. was on the farm in Morgan county when the war broke out, and he promptly enlisted in the Confederate service. He became a member of the "Morgan County Riflemen" under Col. Joe Kelly, of Gen. Parson's Division. He served under Gen. Parsons for three years and eight months, filling the office during that time of orderly sergeant. Early in the winter of 1863 he returned home on a visit and was captured by the militia. The alternative was then given him to be thrown into prison until the close of the war or join the Union forces, and of the two evils he wisely chose the least, and therefore became a nominal soldier on the opposite from where his heart and hopes were. He was placed on as a guard on the trains between Macon City and St. Charles. However, he soon went to Tennessee, and there he assisted in organizing home guards for the Confederate service. While in the Confederate service during the first years of the war, he participated, among numerous others, in the battles of Boonville, Wilson's Creek, Dry Wood, Lexington, Pea Ridge and Corinth. On the 14th of October, 1866, he was married to Miss Catherine Rucker, a daughter of Albert Rucker, of Randolph county. For some time after the war Mr. Rodgers was foreman of the tobacco factory of C. F. Mann & Co., of Hannibal, but in the fall of 1866 he settled in Randolph county and engaged in farming. This he followed with success for nearly ten years, and now has a good farm in the county. In 1877 Mr. Rodgers engaged in the hotel business at Clifton Hill, in which he has since continued. He keeps one of the best houses in the county, and his hotel is popular with all who have ever had the pleasure of partaking of his hospitalities. He is also constable of the township, and discharges the duties of that office with efficiency and with satisfaction to the public. Besides this he is marshal of the town. He is agent for several insurance companies. The livery and feed stables here also occupies a portion of his time, in connection with which are stock pens for drovers. Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers have but one child, James Leonard. Mrs. R. is a member of the Baptist Church.

All early settlers of Randolph county knew William Finnell, the father of the subject of the present sketch, for he was one of the pioneer settlers of the county and was a great hunter in his day, being one of the best shots in all the country round about and at a time when marksmen successfully competed with the Indians in shooting matches. He came out to this county away back in 1817 and lived in the log house that he had built himself, where he kept bachelor's hall and followed hunting and fishing principally and all the sports of the field and forest. However, he improved a farm as time rolled away and was married to Miss Jane Goodman, a daughter of another pioneer of the county. Morgan Finnell was born of this union, and it was on the 22nd of August, 1833, that his eyes first opened to receive the light of day. The son was reared in the county and attended the log school houses of the period, obtaining from the instruction there given an adequate knowledge of school books to get along conveniently in life, so far as education was concerned. His father was quite an old bachelor before he married and so the son also became a bachelor and kept bachelor's hall for several years. However, in 1875, he was married to Miss Maria Rice, a daughter of Ezekial and Elizabeth (Montgomery) Rice, early settlers of Missouri from Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. Finnell have four children: Gertrude H., Mattie, Elizabeth B. and Eliza E. Mr. Finnell has a good farm of 160 acres which he bought and paid for by his own labor since the war. When hostilities broke out in 1861 he joined the Confederate service but was captured the second day after he enlisted and was paroled by Gen. Prentiss, after which he returned home; but times became so unsettled and affairs so critical that he either had to take to the bushes and try to get South or join the Federal militia, for if he had started off to the Southern army he would probably have been captured and shot, as thousands of others were, on the charge of being "bushwhackers." He therefore joined the militia and was more fatal to the hard and regular rations that he drew than to anybody on the other side. Mr. Finnell started out for himself at 18 years of age, without a dollar, and went to farm work, but the war coming on soon, and he being an honest man, he was of course not able to save anything during that time. After the war he commenced again without a cent and is now comfortably situated. This record speaks better for him than anything that could be said here.

'SQUIRE HIRAM STAMPER

'Squire Stamper, or Uncle Hiram, as he is familiarly called, is now well entered upon the seventh decade of life, but is still well preserved in mind and body, and is both active in his movements and bright and spirited in his conversation. He is one of the most highly respected citizens of Clifton township, and takes a marked interest in the affairs of his own community and in general public concerns. He was one of the organizers of the Baptist Church at Clifton Hill and is one of its most valued members. He owned a fine, large farm in the township until a few years ago when, his children having all grown up and married off, he sold it and bought a neat place adjoining Clifton Hill, where he now resides, but he is still at work, and is the farthest from being a man of leisure and idleness. He was born in Owen County, Ky., April 8, 1812, and was a son of Jesse and Nancy (Sebastian) Stamper, both originally from North Carolina, his father of English descent, but his mother of French origin. Hiram was reared on the farm in Kentucky until he was 16 years of age when, his father being a manufacturer of brick and a brick layer, he went with him to Cincinnati, where his father was engaged in that business and where Hiram learned both occupations. He worked in Cincinnati for about seven years, returning home, however, usually through the winter months. On the 27th of December, 1832, he was married to Miss Sallie Cobb, a daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth (Holbrook) Cobb, of Owen county, Ky. 'Squire Stamper then settled on a farm where he continued until 1849, and then engaged in the mercantile and mill business. About that time he started the town of Lusby's Mill, in Owen County, which is now a flourishing trading point. Three years later, however, he returned to his farm and continued on it until 1855, when he removed to Randolph county, Mo., and bought some 300 acres in Clifton township, where he improved a fine farm. There he lived for 25 years, respected and esteemed by all who knew him. He sold his place in 1879 and bought his present farm the same year. While in Kentucky, he held both the offices of justice of the peace and constable a number of years each. 'Squire Stamper is a sociable, pleasant old gentleman, interesting to talk with and always agreeable in his manners and conversation. He and his good wife have reared a family of ten children: Daniel J.; Eliza, now Mrs. Elijah Martin; James L.; Thomas H. B.; Joseph E.; Elizabeth, now Mrs. Thomas Grizzell; Nancy, now Mrs. Yearley Scott; Lucian, now Mrs. Samuel Cobb; Mary F., now Mrs. John G. Breckman; and Finis M.

AUGUSTINE BRADSHER

Mr. Bradsher has a fine farm of over 800 acres and is quite extensively engaged in stock raising. He feeds and ships from three to five car loads of cattle annually and from one to two car loads of hogs. In a word, he is one of the substantial men of the township, and one of its energetic and worthy citizens. It is therefore, as it should be, that a sketch of his life finds a place in this volume. Mr. Bradsher was born in Caswell county, N. C., April 17, 1828, and when he was still in infancy his parents, Moses and Elizabeth (Wallis) Bradsher, came to Missouri and located in Randolph county. The first winter in this State they spent in a school-house in Silver Creek township, but later along the father bought a tract of land and improved a farm. That was the place now known as the Judge Bradley farm, and there the subject of this sketch was reared. He had a limited common-school education as he grew up, and on the 7th of February, 1856, he was married to Miss Martha J. Davis, a daughter of Rev. Samuel C. Davis, one of the pioneer preachers of this section of the State. The second year of his marriage Mr. Bradsher settled on the farm where he now resides, or rather on the part of the land on which he made his home. He was one of the first settlers in this vicinity and has lived here for 27 years, being one of its oldest inhabitants in point of continuous residence. His life has been one of uninterrupted industry and has been abundantly blessed with the fruits of honest toil. He is comfortably situated in life as the facts stated at the beginning of this sketch show. His farm adjoins Clifton Hill and is one of the best in the township. Mr. and Mrs. Bradsher have a family of eight children: William M.; Alver J., Mary E., Lutie M., Vincent D., Minnie H., Ira C. and Earl L. Two, besides, are deceased. Mr. Bradsher, besides raising cattle, deals in them quite extensively. He has a number of reminiscences in regard to the early affairs of the county which are not given here for the reason that they have already been stated in the general history. Mr. Bradsher, on his mother's side, is distantly related to Lord Cornwallis. The Cornwallises and Wallises, as everyone familiar with history knows, came of the same family--that is, the Wallises, originally of Scotland. A Branch of the family moved over into England and there one of the ancestors of Lord Cornwallis became a wealthy miller and large dealer in grain, and one of his sons, being highly educated, rose to great distinction in life and took the name of Cornwallis, as it was not uncommon in those days for people to assume the name of the calling with which their family had been successfully identified.

J. C. PARRISH, M. D.

Dr. Parrish, a physician of many years' successful experience and a citizen who is highly esteemed in the vicinity of Clifton Hill, is a native Kentuckian, but has been a resident of Missouri for over 40 years, and has shown himself a worthy representative of both States, and of the Revolutionary ancestry from which he sprang, not less by his record in private life than by his gallantry as a soldier of the South. He was born in Bourbon county, of the Blue Grass State,

September 20, 1818. His parents were Callaway and Nancy (Shropshire) Parrish, both originally of Virginia families. His grandfather, Abner Shropshire, was a brave soldier of the colonies in the Revolution. Dr. Parrish's father was a saddler by trade, and died when the subject of this sketch was but a year old. But the mother survived up to the fall of 1882, dying in Monroe county at the advanced age of 83. There were two children in the family besides the Doctor, both his seniors: Benjamin F. and Rebecca. Dr. Parrish was reared on a farm and received a common school education. At the age of 18 years he began the study of medicine under Dr. Asa Shropshire, his uncle, and subsequently attended the Eclectic Medical College of Cincinnati, from which he graduated in 1843. Dr. Parrish came to Missouri from Kentucky and located in Monroe county, where he engaged in the practice of his profession. In 1847 he went to Howard county, but three years later, the gold excitement having broken out, he went to California, returning in 1851, coming by way of the Isthmus and New Orleans. After stopping a while in Howard county he crossed over into Monroe, where he practiced medicine until 1853, when he located on Salt River, in Randolph county. Dr. Parrish practiced medicine on Salt river, except while absent in the Confederate service, for nearly 25 years, and while there was also interested in agricultural pursuits and served as justice of the peace for 12 years. In 1877 he went to Fayette, but soon removed to Moberly. He came to Clifton Hill where he now resides, in 1882. Dr. Parrish is not only a physician of a long and successful experience, but he has ever been a constant student of medicine, investigating his chosen science both from the standpoint of theory and from that of experience. In other words, he has not only studied the books but has occupied much time with practical pharmacy--the compounding of medicines, etc. Thus, by his study and experiments, he has been able to prepare some of the most efficient remedies known to pharmaceutics. His preparations have a wide sale and become eminently popular wherever they are introduced. In December, 1860, Dr. Parrish offered himself as a volunteer to uphold the rights and institutions of the South, then threatened with invasion and overthrow, and he became an accepted soldier under the banner of State's sovereignty and for the principles of the resolutions of 1798. Dr. Parrish fought it out on that line for over four years, and until the South went down and the government was revolutionized by the change of the Constitution of the Fathers; or, in other words, by the adoption of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. In the early part of the war he was on Gen. Price's staff, and from the beginning to the close he did his full duty as one of the bravest of the brave who fought under the three-barred flag of the Confederacy. We cannot take the space to give his army record. Suffice it to say that he was in many of the hardest fought battles of the war and in skirmishes without number. If every soldier in the South had been as successful in doing what he was there for as Dr. Parrish was, the issue would have been otherwise than as it resulted, and for every Confederate volunteer there would be three white headstones in the national cemeteries. The Doctor has been married four times. His first wife was Miss Matilda J. Dickinson. She died in 1839. His second wife was a Miss Elizabeth Turner, of Howard county, who died in 1852, leaving him three children: James E., William C., and Elizabeth. His third wife, previously Mrs. Martha Burton, a widow lady, was murdered July 23, 1877, by her son-in-law, James H. Brown, and the Doctor was shot at the same time, and still carries 100 shot in his body which he received at the time. By her he had five children, the first four being two pairs of twins: Mary and Amanda, Susan and Sarah, and the other is Louisa L. To his present wife the Doctor was married December 29, 1882. She was previously Mrs. Margaret A. Bush, a widow lady, whose maiden name was Lanter. He and his wife are members of the Christian Church, and he is a member of the Masonic order. He has a fine farm in Clifton Township.
