

Although Scott County was formed in 1821, the earliest book of marriage records now available at the courthouse was begun in 1840. Any earlier marriage books have been lost or destroyed. Book "I" is in bad condition, and the script is poor. There is a male surname index which was probably prepared long after the records were entered. In some instances the name shown in the index does not seem to agree with that given in the marriage entry. Where that occurs, both versions are listed here. All names are spelled as they appeared in the original record, and are listed in the order given in the index, although several marriages are included which did not appear in the index.

In order to save space, a number has been assigned to each minister or justice of the peace who performed marriages. The names are listed alphabetically at the end of the marriages with their corresponding numbers.
