First published in the Genealogical Magazine of New Jersey, Vol. IX, Nos. 2 and 3, 1934. Three hundred copies reprinted in this form, from the same type by The Somerset Press, Inc., Somerville, New Jersey, in March 1936, for Hiram E. Deats.

Two hundred copies reprinted by Bradford Press, Inc., Flemington, NJ in May 1994 for Hunterdon County Historical Society.

PREFACE

This record was discovered in the County Clerk's office many years ago, and copied on cards for my own use. It has been found so useful in genealogical work, as a partial substitute for the missing United Census of 1790, that it was requested for publication by the Genealogical Society of New Jersey, in their Magazine. It has seemed desirable to print it in separate form, while in type, that it may have a wider circulation. I hope those who may use it will find it as useful in furnishing genealogical clues, as I have.

HIRAM E. DEATS.

THE HUNTERDON MILITIA, 1792

The laws affecting the establishment and maintenance of the Militia in the State of New Jersey have undergone frequent changes. From the viewpoint of the genealogist one of the most interesting of these laws is Chapter 413, approved November 30th, 1792. It provided means for the reorganization of the existing Militia and outlined the method of increasing the force. It appointed a Commissioner in each County to carry out its provisions, and with power to choose a deputy for each Township. Most important of all it charged these officers with the enrollment of "every free and able-bodied white male citizen between the ages of eighteen and forty-five" within their respective jurisdictions. All such citizens so enrolled were to be considered "as and of the Militia of this State", and were to be formed into companies unless they claimed exemption. Exemption from military duty was either by reason of physical disability or because of certain specified occupations or official positions, although under a literal reading of the law others could apparently obtain exemption by the payment of a special tax of $3.00 a year. Lists of the exempts were to be filed with the Township Collector, County Collector and State Treasurer, "and a list of all the Militia enrolled within their County to the Governor of the State. . . ." It would thus appear that the two lists, militia and exempts, constituted a complete census of the free white male citizens between the ages specified.

The law provided that the elections of Company officers were to be held in the presence of the County Commissioner or one of his deputies, which will account for the considerable range of dates of election in the several companies.

The book containing the enrollment of the Hunterdon County Militia, compiled pursuant to the law of 1792, and from which the following records were copied, was formerly on file in the County Clerk's office, but is now in the Public Record Office at Trenton. The various items appear in the original book in the following order: List of Deputies, p. 1; Exempts, by Townships, pp. 2-9; Trenton Militia, p. 10; Maidenhead Militia, p. 14; Hopewell Militia, p. 16; Amwell Militia, p. 21; Reading Militia, p. 32; Kingwood Militia, p. 36; Bethlehem Militia, p. 39; Alexandria Militia, p. 42; Lebanon Militia, p. 45; Tewksbury Militia, pp. 50-52; List of Officers, etc., pp. 56-59. For convenience of reference the Townships and names have been here rearranged and presented in alphabetical order.

Commissioner for the County of Hunterdon

Trenton, May 22, 1793.

*Thomas Reading, the Commissioner who personally wrote this record, was born in Amwell Township Sept. 27, 1734, and died Dec. 15, 1814. He served as Captain during the Revolution. Reading Township was set off from Amwell by Royal Patent dated July 15, 1730, and named in honor of John Reading, father of Thomas, a large land owner and prominent citizen, twice acting Governor, who later resided at what is now Flemington Junction. The present name of the township, Readington, is an abbreviation of Reading Town or Township.

List of all the Militia enrolled in the different Townships in the County of Hunterdon as returned by the several Deputies agreeable to a Law passed at Trenton, Nov. 30th, 1792, for that purpose.
