At the age of fourteen years he moved with his parents to Schuyler County, Illinois, although making his home in Morgan County, near Jacksonville, Illinois, until he was twenty-four years of age, when he enlisted in the 157th Infantry, Illinois, under General Thomas, serving until the close of the war. He was married to Miss Emeline B. Smart at the close of war, and to this union ten children were born, eight sons and two daughters. When married they moved to South Missouri where they lived for eighteen months and in 1867 moved to Gentry County, where he bought forty acres of land, paying forty dollars on it, and commenced the pioneer's life, toiling early and late, onward and upward, always leading a straightforward, upright life, his jovial temperament making him a favorite. He was one of Gentry County's most successful farmers; on his fine farm one would find fine horses, mules and cattle, making a specialty of breeding males and bogs. He always managed his farm although he was not able to do active work for about twenty years. Two years before his death he received a stroke of paralysis and lingered until June 19, 1913, when he passed away.
