Morgan County, Missouri, was erected 5 January 1835 by an Act of the Missouri General Assembly and consisted of the southern portion of Cooper County.

In the early days, the ministers were mainly Circuit Riders and their territory extended from the Missouri River south to the Osage River in a meandering and circuitous manner. They preached in the homes of the pioneers until "meeting houses" were erected. Three of these early ministers were Archie McGee, Laird Burns, and Abraham Millice. Hopewell Union Church was one of the first of the log-constructed places of worship and remains to this day an active union church.

This first book containing Morgan County, Missouri marriages is without an official number or designation except the printing on the spine of the book which reads 1835 to 1861. This is a misnomer since the first marriage was on 28 March 1835 and the last marriage was on 20 June 1875. This book, however, is commonly known as Book One.

After the close of the Civil War, many former slaves exercised their rites of matrimony and many listed their heirs and children at the time of their marriage.

This publication contains 1,076 marriages. Some phonetic spellings were used in the recording process and researchers are warned of this occurrence. Where a question mark (?) appears, it indicates an inability to read the penmanship of the Recorder.

A serious effort was made to copy each name and related information as it appeared on the original record. Even though we are not infallible, an honest effort was made to publish the record as it now exists without alteration.

The printing of the Books of Marriage of Morgan County, Missouri, is the result of the combined efforts of Omega Hutchinson and Irene Sims Kimmel of Versailles who copied the records at the Courthouse. Carl O. Kelsey of Rocky Mount, Missouri, alphabetized and edited the work. August F. Barnhouse of Eldon, Missouri, typed and printed the work.

One insert was required. It is the marriage of Pleasant Connor, Jr. and it appears on the final page of the known book following the recorder's affidavit.

Appreciation is herewith extended to Gullay Blacksten, County Recorder, for his courtesy to the compilers.

PLEASE NOTE: There is an overlapping of dates (1860 to 1875) in the second volume of marriage records of Morgan County. How or why this occurred is unknown to the compilers. Anyone searching for a marriage record occurring during this 15 year span should consult both volumes.

BRIDE INDEX

BOOK ONE

MORGAN COUNTY, MISSOURI

To use this index, find the bride's maiden surname. All surnames are alphabetized. The bride's married surname appears in capital letters following her given name. Turn to her married surname, as alphabetized in the marriage record. Here you will find the groom's name, the bride's maiden name, the date of the marriage, the officiants number (an officiants listing, by number, is a part of the book) and the page number where the marriage record appears in the official record.
