Family Tree Magazine Announces New Edition of the 75 Best State Websites for Genealogy, Updated and Revised for 2021

For immediate release: October 21, 2021

We are pleased to announce the release of our newly revised and updated 75 Best State Websites for Genealogy. This list highlights the best state-based resources for family historians to research their family tree. We have expanded this year's list to include resources for genealogists seeking to learn more about their ancestors in the District of Columbia and US territories including Puerto Rico, American Samoa and Guam.

"We're proud of how this list highlights the great work being done by societies, archives and libraries around the country," said Family Tree Magazine Editor Andrew Koch. "And entries for additional US territories will hopefully help even more researchers find their ancestors."

The 75 Best State Websites list is compiled by contributing Family Tree Magazine editor Rick Crume. The list covers a wide variety of websites for family historians, and each entry is accompanied by a summary of what makes each website valuable. Many of these online collections feature not just indexes and catalogs, but actual images of historical records and photographs as well as digitized vital records, diaries, biographies and more sources that can bring family history alive.

This year's list pays special attention to historic events that took place in each state, as well as a sidebar with helpful tips for getting the most out of these online resources and using them efficiently. The websites are organized alphabetically for easy browsing, punctuated in the print version with photos of significant events in US history.

You can find the new, updated list on our website by visiting <https://www.familytreemagazine.com/best-state-genealogy-websites/>

The list will appear in the November/ December 2021 issue of Family Tree Magazine, which shipped to magazine subscribers and will be available on newsstands in October.
