HAPPY NEW YEAR!!!

A fresh New Year to get back to Genealogy! We all push our research to the background during the Holidays but it is time to get back to the letters, microfilm, books and magazines. Never knowing what we will find is what makes it so exciting!

Our Society Library has received a book donated by the Madison City Library. It is "The PARRISH FAMILY" compiled and published by Scott Lee Boyd. This book includes allied families of Belt, Boyd, Cole, Malone, Clokey, Garrett, Merryman, Parsons, Price, Tipton plus many other surnames. I found mention of my Obedience Robins in the same sentence with a John Waters. Since I have a Grace Waters as Obedience's wife, father unknown, I will have to check out this John Waters. You never know what you will find!

Use our Library - that what it is for!!!! Call Harold Lyon, 371-2589 for a convenient time. In November we met at the Lyon home to have a program on the Library and also brought personal books along that were discussed. Possibly you have a book that can help another member.

Due to the weather, we had a small but congenial group at our Christmas Party on Dec. 14th.

Upcoming meetings will feature a Czech Genealogy program by Bob Plisek in February and a grave-witching program in March by Joyce Barlow. They should both be interesting and hope you can be there.

Sincerely, Lee Sewell President

TRIVIA

NOW IT'S ALL CLEAR...OR IS IT?.....The child of your parents brother or sister is your first cousin. However, your first cousin's child is not your second cousin, but your first cousin once removed. The child of your first cousin once removed is your first cousin twice removed, and his child is your first cousin three times removed.

Your second cousin is your grandparents' brother's or sister's grandchild. That second cousin's child is your second cousin once removed, and his child is your second cousin twice removed.

And your third cousin? It's your great-grandparents' brother's or sister's great-grandchild. The third cousin's child is your third cousin once removed, and his child is your third cousin twice removed.

The grandchild of your brother or sister is your grandnephew or grandnece.

The sister or brother of your grandparent is your great-aunt or greatuncle.

The sister or brother of your greatgrandparent is your great-grand-aunt, or great-grand-uncle.

Have we thoroughly confused you?

POSTAL WORKERS CAUTION FOLDED SASE'S COULD CAUSE LETTER TO BE LOST OR DESTROYED BY THE NEW POSTAL MACHINES

The automated machines that sort billions of pieces of mail do not take a friendly attitude towards bulging letters that do not slide comfortably into the machine.

To assure that your letter containing a SASE reaches it's destination.

NEVER FOLD THE ENCLOSED ENVELOPE

Learning the different common sizes of envelopes is the easiest way to initiate a new habit to overcome the long standing habit of folding your SASE.

#63/4 -- Common short ones they measure 6 1/2 inches

#9-are 9 inches long

10-measures 9 1/2 inches

These are the business size

11-are 11 inches.

If you use the #11 envelope for your outgoing letter. The #10 or smaller will fit nicely without folding.

If you are mailing several pages of material use the 9/12 envelope

Norfolkan remembers delivery wagon days

125 YEARS

Editor's note: As part of Norfolk's 125th anniversary in 1991, various Norfolkans are writing about their memories of the city from years gone by.

In the 1920s, it was common for businesses to offer delivery services. Working as a delivery boy for a Norfolk firm back then now provides Art Gall, a longtime Norfolkan, with many stories to tell.

In 1925, he was a 14-year-old working part time for a delivery man at the Fair Store, then located at the corner of Fourth Street and Norfolk Avenue. It featured a grocery department, a meat department and dry goods.

The delivery service had three routes — south, southwest and northwest — and Gall was to receive 25 cents per trip for his help.

"I've been crazy all my life," Gall said, laughing. "Even then I liked to work."

Suddenly, the delivery man left town, owing Gall $11.25. That was a big sum, but he never did receive it. "And the delivery man was supposed to be such a good person," he said ruefully.

ABOUT A YEAR after that, the Fair Store was destroyed by fire. It was so windy and cold, said Gall, that firemen had to seek shelter in a hardware store across Norfolk Avenue, where Ballantyne's is now located, to get warm.

Sparks from the blaze blew far and wide and set on fire a house across the street from the old post office, now the McMill Building.

But while the store was still in operation, Gall said he had a lot of experiences on the meat wagon while making deliveries. Once, when the wagon came back from a run to south Norfolk, he was dropped off en route because he was then living at 403 S. Fourth St. He jumped off the wagon only to be run over by a truck. The driver stopped and asked if he needed help, but Gall proceeded to walk home.

THE MEAT WAGON was driven with mules, which had names like Silver and Sally, Big Buck and Little Buck, Punch and Judy. Once, when the mules got tired of waiting for the wagon to be loaded on the east side of the building, they just took off and went back to their barn, which was then located at the rear of the present WJAG Radio station.

On a Christmas Eve, Gall was helping deliver an order to a home in the "Mapes Park" area, located in south Norfolk. A woman with one leg lived there and although she sometimes was able to drive into town with a horse and buggy, she didn't have many groceries on hand. After leaving the home, Gall discovered he had forgotten a package of yeast and even though it was about midnight, drove all the way back to deliver it to her.

Under the driver's seat of the wagon, there was a 50-gallon tank holding kerosene. The wagon would make stops and people would bring out gallon cans to be filled.

Gall's sister and brother also worked at the Fair Store. When the fire occurred, his sister, Lillian, looked out the window of their family home, saw the fire and said, "There goes my office."

When the fire took place, the east wall gave way and a flying brick struck a man walking on the east side of North Fourth and broke his ankle.

Gall's favorite story of the old days is about the three butchers in the meat market. Two were heavy set and one weighed much less. They decided to make some raisin wine and set the jar on a high shelf to ferment. The lighter butcher would often climb up and take a sip while the two other were at lunch.

Finally, the day came when the two heavy set butchers thought the wine should be ready for consumption and they sent the lighter one up the ladder to check. "It's all evaporated," he said.

Gall reminisces on 1920 business

Editor's note: This is another article during Norfolk's 125th year that tells of days gone by.

By Art Gall Special to Daily News

In 1920 Fishback Produce was located on North Third Street -the present location of Henningsen's. Fishback's also sold to meat mar-

My brother Herman worked for Fishback's and would take railroad cars of live chickens to New York and San Francisco, with each trip taking about a week. Herman built a trunk for his cooking utensils and cooked his meals on a topsy stove. He slept in the caboose. The box car was not enclosed — it just had slats - so in the winter he would put on side curtains.

The chickens were in crates with feed troughs hanging on them. There was a wide aisle down the center for the length of the car.

At some of the railroad runways, Herman would stop to pick up sand and gravel to put with the feed for grit. He made six trips to New York and seven to San Francisco. We were always happy to see him arrive home safe and sound.

He was to take another car of chickens to New York - car No. 1313, but being superstitious he would not go, so another man took over. The sacks of feed were piled in the center of the car. At Fremont the train apparently slowed down. the feed sacks toppled and fell, and

AND NOW for the butcher's story. A lady came in to buy a chicken and the butcher had only one left, so he put it on the scales.

The chicken weighed three pounds, and she said, "I'd like one a little larger." So the butcher took the chicken to the back room, put the bird's mouth under the faucet and added a little water.

He brought the chicken back to the woman and put it on the scales and said, "This one weighs 3½ pounds." And she said, "I'll take both of them.

National Archives move:

The National Archives Building in College Park, Maryland will open for research in 1994. The new building will house records from previous facilities in Suitland, Maryland, Alexandria, Virginia and the National Archives in Washington D.C. The 1.7 million square foot building, situated on the University of Maryland Campus, will be the largest most technically advanced archives facilities in the world. For additional information write to the Textual Reference Division Office of the National Archives, Washington D.C. Or telephone the reference services branch 202-501-5400.

Ill. St. Gene. Soc. Newsletter Dec. 1992; York Area Gene. Soc. Newsletter July 1993

The higher you climb in your family tree, the more you'll realize that the tree's not really a tree. For as it's branches divide again and again, more and more of them reconnect with one another, as well as with the branches of the family trees of everyone else on earth.

The further you look into your own genealogy, then, the more you're struck by the fact that we're all related to Dante and Mozart, to Churchill and Hitler - and to one another. To me, that's the ultimate lesson of genealogy: a lesson not in snobbery and self-importance, but in the fact that we're all members of one large family.

by Bruce Bawer, Reader's Digest 1993.

Last week the tv quiz show Jeopardy played their championship game. One of the contestants was asked how his life had changed since he had been on the show the year before. He replied that since he had an unusual last name he had received letters from all over the country from people with the same last name, wondering if they were related. So, he replied that he is now tracing his family tree. Do you think Jeopardy will replace "The Genealogical Helper??"

NEW SOCIETIE'S

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA

This society was formed and is now having regular meetings. They are meeting the 3rd Thursday of each month at the Fire Hall, 3rd And Pearl in Wayne, Ne. Officer's are President Steve Gross; Vice Pres., Marcys Rice; Secretary, Imogene Brasch; Treasurer, Lois Shelton. Information can be obtained by writing Steve Gross, 1108 Walnut St. Wayne, NE 68787. BOONE-NANCE COUNTY GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

The Boone-Nance County Genealogical Society was organized March 8, 1993. The Society is organized to increase interest in and raise the standards of genealogical research in Boone and Nance Counties by means of educational programs, workshops and the publication of genealogical information.

The Society has published four cemetery books comprising abstractions of all the cemeteries in Boone County. Book 1: Albion, Rose Hill and St. Michael's Cemeteries; Book II: St. Edward and Boone Cemeteries; Book III: St. John's Catholic and Mt Pleasant, Petersburg; St. Bonaventure's Catholic, Raeville; Pioneer, Loretto; Immanuel Zion South Branch; Immanuel Zion West Branch; Immanuel Zion East Branch and Dahlsborg Cemeteries; Book IV: St. Mary's Catholic and Dublin, Primrose; St. Anthony's Catholic Sunset and Sunrise, Cedar Rapids; Dennison, Bonanza, Naomi Shoefelt and Enfield Cemeteries.

The Society is also offering Family Recognition Certificates to any one who can prove descent from an early settler of either Boone or Nance County. Appplication forms can be obtained from the society.

Meetings are held the second Monday of the Month. The Society will answer research request.

Information on joining the Society, the Family Recogniton Certificate applications and purchase of the cemetery books can be obtained by writing the Society at 721 W. Prairie, Albion, NE 68620-1345.

STANTON COUNTY GETS MUSEUM MONEY FROM PENNSYLVANIA DONORS

A check was presented Oct. 10th to Don Sprieck of the Historical Society of Stanton County. It was for flood relief, resulting from earlier heavy rains which flooded homes and the museum in Pilger. The check was presented by 4 men of the East Lycoming Farm and Heritage Assoc. of Pennsylvania. How did a Pennsylvania organization find Stanton Co., NE.? After witnessing the devastation of floods in the midwest in newspapers and TV the group decided to help in some way and find a needy organization similar to their own. A picture of water being pumped out of the museum basement which appeared in the Stanton Register, mades its way to Pennsylavania and was noticed. The contact person was our own Georgene Sones. She had visited and corresponded with people in the Penn. area. Mrs. Sones had contacted the Neb. State Historical Soc. and found although many areas were in need, they suggested Stanton Co. since it was small and received no county funding. The Pennsylvanians had a 3-day show, with speakers and musicians and raised the contributions and also brought several boxes of food. Director James Hill, and grandson Scott Wertz, both of Muncy, Pa, grandson Dale Wertz Jr.., Unityville, Pa, and cousin John Ellis, Bloomsburg, PA volunteered to deliver the donation personally. They had planned a hunting trip in Colorado and decided to add the 100 miles to visit Pilger.

Congradulations to Georgene for her help..

GEN-BOOK

There is a new computer program available to help PAF users write a genealogy book. This program is called GEN-BOOK. GEN-BOOK takes the information from your PAF 2.2 data files and generates a book, putting the information into a WordPerfect 5.0/5.1 file. GEN-BOOK allows you to choose from a variety of ID numbering systems and formats; Modified Register, Henry, Descendancy by Descendants, and Descendancy by Generation.

There are also two ascending genealogy formats: Ahnentafel and Multi-Surname.

Using WordPerfect, there are many other editing features available, such as; change the style of print (italics, bold, underline, etc), change the page size or line spacing, or select different fonts that your printer can support. You may add some interesting histories previously saved in WordPerfect files. Once you are finished editing your book, WordPerfect will generate a table of contents and a two- or three-column name index that reflects the current page numbers.

You can send non-genealogists a "quick book" with blank lines indicating information that you lack and ask them to fill in the blanks.

Information may be obtained by contacting: Rex B. Clement, Clement Custom Programming, 2105 Country Lane, Auburn, CA 95603
