Norfolk Pair Observes 56th Anniversary Mr. and Mrs. I. Nightingale Located Here in 1895

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Nightingale, 307 Indiana avenue, who were married Jan. 6, 1886, at Collins Center, Minn., as a blizzard started to roar, yesterday celebrated their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary in a quiet manner, the main event being a dinner party in their honor at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gordon Butterfield, and family, Norfolk.

The wedding took place on a Wednesday evening and because of the blizzard the minister had to stay at home until the following Saturday. Several other wedding guests became snowbound at the home.

The Nightingales started their married life on a farm near Hector, Minn. Later they farmed near Boone Lake, Minn. Mr. Nightingale believes no man ever worked harder than he did on those Minnesota farms.

Came Here in 1895

They came to Norfolk in the fall of 1895, and have resided here since that time, with the exception of a year spent at North Platte.

Their first home was near Third street and Madison avenue, where a garage building now is located. They recall Norfolk had a serious flood the spring after they arrived here, and the water came up to within an inch or two of the floor in their home.

After locating in Norfolk, Mr. Nightingale became a traveling salesman for a harvester company. He later went into the real estate and insurance business, and is still engaged in the real estate business.

Mr. and Mrs. Nightingale are the parents of five daughters and four sons, one of whom, Earl, a World War veteran, is dead. The others are: Mrs. Olive Clark, Chadron; Mrs. James Wamsley, northwest of Norfolk; Fay, Springfield, Mo.; Ralph, Dorsey; Mrs. Hugh Raymond, near Neligh; Mrs. Ole Lilledahl, Chicago; Mrs. Gordon Butterfield, Norfolk, and Harold, Denver.

They have twenty-one grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Born in Wisconsin

Mr. and Mrs. Nightingale first knew each other as youngsters in Wisconsin. He was born June 2, 1859, at Fond du Lac, and she, the former Lillian Bush, on March 27, 1868. At the time of their marriage, he was 26 and his bride 17. They attended a country school together, and later their families moved to Minnesota and lived about thirty miles apart. Their romance began when he started visiting at the Bush home.

Although his health is not the best, Mr. Nightingale is able to be about and carry on his business affairs. Mrs. Nightingale, who has never known what it is to be "real sick," is in excellent health. The secret of good health is "never worry," she said, pointing to her hair in which there are only a few grey hairs. Source: The Norfolk Daily News, Wednesday, January 7, 1942, page

Came Here with First Colony

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Raasch, who have just celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary, were, as children, members of the first group of Wisconsin settlers who came to this community in 1866. Editors Note: A picture of the couple was shown in the paper.

Marriage Ties Hold Together For 57 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Raasch Were Children in First Wisconsin Colony

Have Same Birthday

Norfolk Pioneer Recalls Journey Made by 28 Families in 63 Covered Wagons, Most of Which Were Drawn by Oxen.

Seventy-four years ago this month twenty-eight Wisconsin families left their homes to cross the prairies and establish a colony where Norfolk today stands. Among the children in the covered wagon caravan were Henry Raasch, then 6 years old and Louise Wachter, 4 years old.

Seventeen years later on May 6, 1883, Henry Raasch and Louise Wachter were married at Norfolk. This same couple Tuesday celebrated their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary at their home at 800 Georgia Avenue, to which they retired eight years ago after spending forty-nine years on their farm near the old canning factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Raasch, both of whom are in good health, are the parents of ten sons and daughters, six of whom are living. They are: Frank, Adolph, Emil, Ferdinand, Mrs. Arthur Uecker and Miss Louise Raasch. In observance of the wedding anniversary, the sons and daughters honored their parents Sunday at a family dinner.

Have Same Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Raasch hold the distinction of having the same birthday, Nov. 3. Both were born in Wisconsin, and Mr. Raasch is now 80 years old, and Mrs. Raasch 78. One of his hobbies is gardening, and he has a fine garden started this spring.

Although he was only 6 years old when the Wisconsin colony arrived in Norfolk, he vividly recalls the forty-day journey across the prairies. "There were twenty-eight families in the colony, which traveled in sixty-three covered wagons," he said. "All those wagons, except four, were pulled by oxen.

"We left Wisconsin on May 30, and arrived in Norfolk, then a wilderness, on July 4, and we didn't travel on Sundays. There was more Christianity then than now." He recalls grass at Norfolk was two to seven feet in height. "We were delayed at Humbug creek near Pilger because we had to spend two or three days building a bridge to cross it. And we used wooden nails. It took us a whole day to cross the Missouri river at Omaha on a ferry boat, and the river was running full."

Recalls Mosquitoes

When the Wisconsin settlers arrived at Norfolk, Mr. Raasch says the mosquitoes were worse than the Indians. "Those insects were after our blood, and the Indians did us no harm," he commented.

Mr. Raasch's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Raasch, and Mrs. Raasch's were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wachter. The two families settled on farms near each other. Mr. Raasch recalls Norfolk's first post office was in his father's home. "It was three or four feet long, and had paper, ink and 11 cents in stamps," he recalled.

Of those who came to Norfolk to make history in the summer of 1866, Mr. Raasch says only twenty-five or twenty-six are still living. Looking back on the pioneer days, Mr. Raasch said: "We had better meals than now because of home-made bread, home-smoked bacon and all those good things," he said. Have Four Great Grandmothers

The wedding ceremony was solemnized by Father Brass, which made Mathilda H. Adelman and John C. Dickey and Mary M. Lintner and Albert J. Adelman, man and wife. Both couples left by train for a honey-moon trip to Denver, Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Dickey expect to make their home after June 15th at Snyder, Nebraska, while Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Adelman will be home in this city to their many friends after June 15th. Excerpts from: Madison Star-Mail, Friday, June 4, 1920, page 2.

Married

John W. McCallum, 74 years of age, and Jessie L. Vaughn, 58, both of Meadow Grove, had been keeping company for about a year. Friends in their home town smiled at each other. They expected a match to result.

And they were not disappointed, for Thursday, June 3rd, the couple came to Omaha, obtained a license from "Cupid" Stubbendorf and were married by Judge Foster. Immediately after the knot was tied the bridegroom fulfilled a pre-nuptial agreement by presenting the bride with $10,000. Mr. McCallum is a retired farmer---Omaha Bee.

The News extends heartiest congratulations to the happy couple.

Marriages

Finds Wife for Stanton Farmer

Stanton, Neb., March 4 --- Uncle Sam's mails and an Omaha preacher, Rev. Charles W. Savidge, have succeeded in securing for Harry E. Tuton, a farmer near here, a wife, who has promised to make his home happy and at the same time be a mother to his seven motherless children.

Some six months ago the first Mrs. Tuton died. There was the seven children, 320 acre farm, ten horses, fifty cattle and a big drove of hogs to be looked after. A couple of months later Mr. Tuton, driven to almost the verge of insanity, went to Omaha and told his troubles to Rev. Mr. Savidge, who advised him to marry again. Not having any person in view, Mr. Tuton did not know how to go about making an alliance. After talking matters over, the arrangements were left to the preacher, who inserted advertisements in the Omaha papers, not mentioning the name, or location of the widower. A few days later letters commenced to pour in upon Rev. Mr. Savidge. He scanned their contents and out of almost 800 he selected one from Miss Mary Fenwick, of Decatur, Ill. He liked the tone of it and sent the missive to Mr. Tuton, who opened a correspondence with Miss Fenwick.

After the first letter others went thick and fast and a couple of weeks ago Mr. Tuton went to Illinois, met Miss Fenwick and both were satisfied. They were married and at once started for their home here, stopping over in Omaha to thank Rev. Mr. Savidge for what he did in their behalf.

Dan Cupid On Job In Madison County During Past Year

Records in Office of County Judge Show Total of 152 Licenses Issued

Eight More Than In 1925

Man Who Built First Road Bed For Union Pacific Among Victims of Cupid

More marriages were performed in Madison county in 1926 than during the previous year, so records in the office of county judge Ernest Reeker show.

During the year just ending, a total of 152 licenses were issued, eight more than during 1925. Of the 152 licenses, since January 1926, Judge Reeker performed 42 ceremonies.

The oldest couple married during 1926, the records show was Albert Alliss, 75 of Belwood Nebraska and Sarah Curtis 74 of the same place.

Aside this distinction this couple without question experienced most difficulty in having the nuptial knot securely tied. To start with the automobile in which they were riding to Madison overturned near Columbus and it was necessary to charter another automobile to continue the journey here. After securing a license they set about to find a minister and unsuccessful in this returned to the county judges office where they were married by Judge Reeker.

Mr. Alliss is said to have built the first road bed for the Union Pacific when the railroad passed through the state in 1867.

Golden Wedding Celebration of Mr. and Mrs. George Beed

March 18, 1933

The following article taken from the Elkhorn Journal, Battle Creek's first newspaper, was printed in 1883, and read at the golden wedding celebration.

Rose Phillips and George Beed were married at the home of the bride's parents in Highland Precinct, Madison County, Nebraska, March 18, 1883. F. H. L. Willis, Esquire, officiated at the wedding of George Beed and Rose Phillips. The above event has been looked for by the people of this locality for some time. No cards but lots of cake. Miss Rose has had a host of admirers ever since her residences here but George has by persistent wooing, won the prize and left the rest of suitors in the background.

Highland's constable, no doubt thinking that somebody might harm the happy pair, summoned about a dozen able assistants to his aid, went and guarded their premises the same evening, took such weapons as old shotguns, cowbells, etc., which I believe kept at ball all who would be liable to harm them. This, of course, is rather unusual occurrence on a Sabbath evening but the majesty of the law must be upheld at all hazards.

Signed, "The Esq"

The couple were married at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Phillips. After the wedding, the couple went to make their home in a dugout. They lived in the dugout a year, then succeeded to a homestead west of Battle Creek. Four years later they sold this homestead and moved to their timber claim three and one-half miles northeast of Meadow Grove.

In the blizzard of 1888, Mr. Beed became lost in the storm. Mrs. Beed went in search of him and found him wandering near the house with both eyes and his mouth frozen shut and his mittens frozen to his hands.

They lived on their timber claim until 1911 when they came to Meadow Grove to make their residence. They had both come to Madison County in covered wagons, Mr. Beed in 1872, and Mrs. Beed in 1881.

The George Beed's had three children, Emma, Earl and Lester Beed.

At the golden wedding celebration there was one guest present who was also at the wedding, Mrs. Malissa Ober. Source: They Called It Meadow Grove, compiled by Gary Kuchar and Mrs. Lenora Kuchar, page 153.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beed had three children: Emma, born August 27, 1885, Lester, and Earl. Emma married Eugene Lewis on January 6, 1904. Eugene was the son of Perry Lewis. Earl Beed married Emma Mewes on April 26, 1911. Earl and Emma Beed two children were: Mabel, who married Virgil Sanne and Harold who married Alice Kuchar. Lester Beed married Pearl Russell on January 15, 1909. Source: They Called It Meadow Grove, compiled by Gary Kuchar and Mrs. Lenora Kuchar, page 193.

Rev. J. H. Johnson, of Bancroft, and Miss Cassie Cain, of Meadow Grove, were married at that place on Tuesday by Rev. J. W. Jennings.

P. F. Bell and Miss Mary Hyde were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. J. J. Par[rest of name smeared] at [smeared] C. J. Chapman on Wednesday, Oct 5th. The contracting parties are well known in the city. Mr. Bell having been long a resident, for some time connected with the Daily News and now being one of the firm of Sessions & Bell. Mrs. Bell has, for some years, been a successful teacher in the city schools. They have established a home on lower Third Street.

Francis M. Herron and Miss Narcissa T. Blach were married on Sunday by Rev. Mr. Parker at his residence. The parties live in the country about 7 miles south west of Norfolk. Source: The Norfolk Journal, October 13, 1892, page 5.

A. H. Hiesau has returned from Iowa bringing a wife with him. They will set up house keeping in their new house on Fifth street. Source: The Norfolk Journal, October 20, 1892, page 5.

Ernest Fisher and Miss Martha Nietz were married on Sunday by Rev. J. P. Muller.

A. H. Kiesau returned from Iowa last week bringing his recently married wife with him. Miss Glennie Williams, daughter of George Williams, and Dennis Shehan, of Rongis, Wyoming, were married on Wednesday by Rev. Father Walsh at St. Mary's church. After a wedding trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis the happy couple will visit here, go south for the winter and then settle down in Wyoming where Mr. Shehan has large stock interests. Mrs. Shehan's many friends here congratulate her and wish her a life of happiness. Source: The Norfolk Journal, October 27, 1892, page 5.

Geo. S. Whitham was married on Thanksgiving Day to Miss Elizabeth Rankin, of Monmouth, ILL. The worthy young couple will go to housekeeping soon. Thus George consoles himself at his defeat for the county attorneyship.

There were a couple of weddings in the city on Tuesday, one being of the well known jeweler, C. F. W. Marquardt, who was married at his home to Mrs. Florence Chambers, Rev. J. W. Jennings officiating. The other was that of Aug. Lenz and Bertha Wichman at the bride's residence, Rev. Mr. Ziegler officiating. Mr. Lenz lives on a farm east of town. The bride is a daughter of Ferdinand Pasewalk. Source: The Norfolk Journal, December 1, 1892, page 5.

L. C. Hepperly and Miss Anna Westervelt were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Westervelt, on Wednesday, Rev. M. D. Chilson officiating. The friends of this fine and very worthy young couple wish them a long and happy wedded life. The list of presents was large and sensibly selected most of them being things of practical, every day value. The family has been considerably reduced in these recent years, but they have this consolation that the scope of family interests broaden and in the particular instance that their children will be their near neighbors.

This (Thursday) morning at the residence of the bride's parents on Madison Avenue, Rev. J. J. Parker joined in marriage Miss Minnie Gregory and Dr. E. A. Gillette. Only the family witnessed the ceremony, Horace Gregory, of Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Fichter, of Emerick, being present. The bride is the daughter of U. Gregory, has lived in the city for a number of years and for several years past has faithfully and efficiently served in the capacity of teacher in the primary department of the public schools. Dr. Gillette has been established in the dental profession in Norfolk for the past two years. The happy couple departed at noon for Omaha and other points for a short wedding tour.

Norfolk's List of Eligibles

The market for Norfolk bachelors is a trifle slow, and The Press has been requested to publish a list stating the particular qualifications and virtues of the various individuals. A few have become benedicts the past year; a few are reported as bespoken, but there are yet several whose names would fit in beautifully with orange blossom stories. The Press may later publish a directory of names and qualifications of the Norfolk eligibles, but at this time deems it wise to publish only the names suggested by one who ought to know whereof he speaks: A. W. Hawkins, thought to be promised; W. J. Stafford, worth while but elusive; P. E. Carberry, said to be bespoken; R. N. Zimmerman, heart whole and fancy free, but thought to be a trifle finicky; L. E. Waddick, single but has hopes; C. B. Salter, manly but modest; Fritz Asmus, wealthy, popular and in demand; Bob Ballantyne, just too sweet, but rather uncertain; Pete Barrett, wily and difficult to capture; E. G. and Lorin F. Bruggeman, both popular but too busy to marry; G. L. Carlson, a rare specimen and clear out of reach; Timothy Carribine, chosen; Walter Foster, a dyed-in-the-wool woman hater; Charles Gerecke, handsome but thought to be promised; Wm. J. Kennedy, wary of matrimonial entanglements; Herman A. Hauptli, handsome, but in rather bad standing with feminine Norfolk because of his tenderness toward visitors; Paul L. Zuelow, a good catch, but slow to bite; E. O. Surber, good looking and popular but hard to please; H. A. Schelly, a "dear," but bespoken. Widowers, too, are numerous in Norfolk, and everyone knows widowers make the very best of husbands. These will come in for a write up in an early issue. The staff artist of The Press will endeavor to get likenesses of these Norfolk eligibles and publish them together with a "Who's Who" as seen by anxious Norfolk mothers.
